Racial violence broke out again in Cairo, Ill., and Gov. Otto Kerner ordered National Guardsmen early today to put down the outbreak.

Sporadic sniping and some hurling of fire bombs was reported by police Tuesday night and early today in the small Midwest town which had racial trouble Sunday night.

The commanding officer of the 50 National Guardsmen, Lt. Jerry Lebo, said his men cordoned off an all-Negro public housing project and would return any sniper fire.

The home of a Negro woman in West Baton Rouge, La., was the target of an explosion late Tuesday night. The blast damaged the lawn and the front of the home of Viola Logan, a retired school principal and an active member of the all-Negro West Baton Rouge Improvement Association.

Negro youths reported they saw white persons throw something on the lawn and then speed away.

Fires Set

In Erie, Pa., racial disturbances again led to fire outbreaks as they had last week. Police said two fires were set

Dutchess Migrant Stabbed

A 29-year-old migrant farm worker was in Dutchess County jail today facing a second degree assault charge, and another farm laborer was in Northern Dutchess Hospital, Rhinebeck, as the result of a stabbing incident on a farm on Pitcher Lane, Town of Red Hook.

State Police told The Freeman that Hazaki Hargrove, of 608 South Davis Street, Plant City, Fla., was arrested Tuesday morning by BCI Investigator Joseph Colligan. Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Frank Martin, Town of Red Hook, Hargrove was held in $500 bail pending preliminary examination.

Judge Martin fixed no date for the hearing. He assigned the County Public Defender's office to represent the defendant.

According to Rhinebeck troopers, Hargrove apparently had been drinking Monday at about 9 p. m. when he argued with Tyrone Hunter, 18, another employee on the Red Hook farm. During the quarrel, Hargrove allegedly plunged the blade of a citrus knife through the right arm pit of the victim.

Other workers on the farm who were present at the time of the assault went to the aid of the wounded laborer who was bleeding profusely. Emergency treatment was administered and Hunter was rushed to the hospital in Rhinebeck.

Authorities reported that 20 sutures were taken to close the knife wound.

Get $987 Loot in Ellenville Store

A bold daylight safe burglary at the Rose & Douglas Hardware store, 98 Canal Street, Ellenville, which netted $987.84 was under investigation today by police of that community and State Police Bureau of Criminal Investigation officers.

Village Patrolman Robert Mance said a proprietor of the store closed the establishment for business at 5:45 p. m. Tuesday and returned at 6:20 p. m. to work on the company books. As he entered the place he discovered the safe had been forced open and looted of the cash.

Police were notified and BCI officers were called in to assist in the investigation. Mance said the store had been entered through a window on the east side of the building, which is in the heart of the Ellenville business district. The safe was in the rear office and was not visible from the street.

A spokesman for the company told The Freeman that an electric chisel and punch had been used to bore a hole in the time lock of the safe. The tools were left near the safe. They had been "borrowed" from the stock.

Mississippi Rebukes Local Congressman

Resnick Again Lashes Farm Unit

(Special to The Freeman)

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick lashed out at the American Farm Bureau Federation again Tuesday and, at the same time, received a rebuke from a Mississippi representative who said "there is not a word of truth" in Resnick's charges that federal efforts to feed Negroes in that state were blocked by politicians.

The Ellenville Democrat said that his attack on the financial status of the Farm Bureau provoked the organization "to hit the panic button" and mass a violent attack against him.

Charge in Speech
According to the Associated Press, Resnick made his charges in a speech given in the nation's capitol Tuesday night.

Resnick, chairman of a House Agriculture subcommittee, contends that the bureau is an interlocking, nationwide combine of insurance companies with total assets of more than $1 billion.

Soon after Resnick's report, the full House Agriculture Committee voted formally to disassociate itself from the New Yorker's charges, an action Resnick claims was masterminded by the farm bureau.

"The obvious question now arises. Why did the Farm Bureau hit the panic button?" Resnick asked in his speech.

"Why did it react so violently against me? What caused this unusual act of massive retaliation against a congressman who did nothing more than bring its activities to the public forum for questioning?" Resnick asked.

"The plain fact is that this powerful organization has at no time denied or contradicted any of the revelations I have made about its operations. But before my subcommittee, they were evasive, tight-lipped, and downright untruthful," Resnick asserted.

The representative contends that the bureau should not be listed by the Internal Revenue Service as a tax-exempt agricultural organization, Resnick has asked, and the service has agreed, to investigate the bureau's financial standing.

Rep. Jamie Whitten, a Democrat, said Tuesday his remarks

Arraign Eight In Narcotics Roundup Here

The arrest of a Woodstock woman on narcotics charges this morning brought the total to eight persons apprehended in a series of lightning raids by city and state police, sheriff's department and State Narcotic Bureau officials last night.

The eight were arraigned in County Court before Judge Raymond J. Mino at 11 a. m. this morning. All cases were adjourned until Sept. 5, the opening day of the fall session.

The Woodstocker, Gibney Whyte, 27, was one of two women arrested on the narcotics charges. She was charged with felonious possession of narcotics with intent to sell, possession of a narcotic drug and conspiracy to sell narcotics. The narcotic was marijuana. Naccarato was also charged with possession of a depressant. The other woman, Mrs. Judy Peterson of Miller's Lane was indicted for felonious selling of narcotics and unlawful possession of narcotics.

The six men included Ronald McElrath, 19, of 43 Derrenbacher Street; Ronald J. Augustine, 19, of Sunrise Park; Charles J. Naccarato, 17, of 75 First Avenue; Albert Robinson, 21, of Sleightsberg; Ronald K. Weeks, 20, of 70 Cedar Street and Thomas L. Blackwell of 29 Glasco Turnpike, Woodstock.

The Weeks youth was not arrested on a drug charge. He is being held for possession of a dangerous weapon and concealment of a dangerous weapon. Police records indicate that he was charged with narcotics possession in 1964.

McElrath, Naccarato, Augustine and Blackwell were indicted for felonious possession of drugs and felonious selling of drugs.

According to District Attorney Joseph P. Torraca the raids had been carefully planned for several months. Last night's operation involved at least 50 men. There were 35 officers from the Kingston Police Department who were called on special duty for the raids. Teams of four men each went out.

Chief Robert F. Murphy had nothing but praise for his men this morning. The chief gave an indication of things to come when he told The Freeman, "This wasn't one of those one-shot deals. These drugs are dangerous to the health of our young people. We're going to stay with this thing. We're going to knock their ears off every chance we get."

A spokesman at the city police department this morning said the arrests were orderly and there was no incidents even though two of the men allegedly had firearms in their possession. Naccarato was also charged with possession of firearms.

All the defendants were represented in court today by attorneys.

Francis Martocci appeared for Naccarato, Augustine, Mrs. Peterson and McElrath. He voiced strong opposition to what he labeled a press conference last night as the defendants were brought into the police station at city hall to be

City GOP To Name Chairman

"There will be an open convention, names are going to be submitted, and there will be a head count of delegates," so said Common Council Minority Leader John Machone regarding tonight's meeting of the GOP city committee to elect a city chairman.

John Ray Mayone, present city chairman, said that he would carry his record to the floor of the Board of Supervisors chambers at the Ulster County office building in his bid to be reelected to the post.

The meeting will begin at 8 p. m. tonight.

Feeney Will Not Run

One big threat against Mayone's bid has been removed. Edward "Ted" Feeney has told The Freeman today, "I am not going to run."

Feeney went on to say that he had been approached to run, thought it over, and decided against it.

"I've got a lot of work to do (as a lawyer) and the chairmanship would take a great deal of time," the young Kingston attorney added.

Mayone's problems may not be over, reliable sources have it, and it is expected that at least one other name will be put up to oppose him.

Mayone's Record

One Republican said that, "Mayone has worked very hard but certain responsibilities were not met."

Whatever those responsibilities are, the consensus appeared to be that Mayone, indeed, has worked very hard.

One prominent Kingston Republican said that the 1965 mayoralty race "was the most well organized GOP campaign in recent years" and it was pointed out that Mayone hired a public relations man and set up a store front headquarters in a campaign that had Republicans supporting Albert Kurdt over Raymond W. Garraghan.

Kurdt lost by a little over 300 votes. It was pointed out that Mayone has remained a "working chairman," and that it would be difficult to find someone who would devote as much time and effort to the job.

Crashes With 73 Aboard

HENDERSONVILLE, N. C. (AP) — A Piedmont Airlines jet crashed in rugged mountain country near here today shortly after taking off from the Hendersonville airport.

First reports said the Boeing 727 airliner collided in flight with a smaller aircraft. The small plane went down in flames. The airliner, reported with 73 persons aboard, also went down.

Opposition Strong to Plan for JFK Park

By HUGH D. REYNOLDS

Strong opposition was voiced to Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan's plans for John F. Kennedy Park at Kingston Point Tuesday at a public hearing conducted by the State Water Resources Commission in City Hall.

Robert Cook, central agent for the water resources commission, a division of the State Department of Conservation, conducted the hearing which began at 10 a. m. in the Common Council chambers and lasted until 4 p. m. with an hour's break.

Holds Floor

Chief spokesman for the opposition was Alderman Clifford G. Sinsabaugh (D-Fifth Ward). He held the floor either as a witness or a questioner of wit-nesses for the greater part of the meeting.

Mayor Garraghan spoke and outlined his plans for a park and marina in what is now called Kingston Lagoon. The mayor spoke of his plans for dredging operations to create the marina and land fill operation for Kennedy Park. He also spoke of building a dock and a dike to control the depth of water.

The Mayor said, "I think the people of that area will be pleased with our plans."

The people at the hearing didn't appear to be. The mayor's land fill operations came under heavy fire. At present, the fill used is trash covered over with sand. Residents claimed the trash was causing water pollution and endangering the swimmers at Kingston Point Beach.

Mayor Garraghan was also accused of bypassing the City Council in applying for the permit that was under discussion yesterday.

No Knowledge
Sinsabaugh said he had no knowledge of the mayor's most recent plans for the area. He questioned Alderman John Machone (R-12th Ward) and Machone said he had no written knowledge of the mayor's plans.

Machone is the minority party leader of the Common Council.

Sinsabaugh was not the only critic. The State Conservation Department was represented by two local officials who strongly opposed the destruction of a natural feeding and breeding ground for a multitude of birds, fish and animals.

Lee Blake of the Department of Fish and Game said his department took a survey of the lagoon on July 5. The method used is to stun the fish with an electric shock and then take a count.

Blake said there were "hundreds of eels" counted along with eight large mouth bass in size up to 16 inches; 15 white perch up to 10 inches in length; 12 sunfish up to seven inches long and a few striped bass, and golden shiners.

Blake admitted that the area is polluted but said it was no worse than other areas of the Hudson. He said if the lagoon were converted into a marina it would probably destroy most of the fish that are now there.

Mentions Birds

Commenting on the fish and game aspect of the lagoon Mayor Garraghan said this morning, "Even the birds won't stop there."

Winford Ford, Region Eight game manager, did not agree with the mayor. He said Kings Point is a feeding and resting area for migrant ducks and is important in relation to other coves in the area. He cited the disappearance of natural habitats "at an astonishing rate."

Ford said there were also wood ducks and mallards that lived in the lagoon. "Any landfill in the area will change its character and prevent use and cause nature lovers and duck hunters a severe loss," Ford said.

Area sportsmen apparently agree with Ford. William Meyer of St. Remy, president of Ulster County Federation of Sportsmen, was on hand to voice his opposition to the mayor's plans.

The question of future health problems was also raised in that the people living on North Street which fronts the lagoon use septic tanks for sewerage disposal. It was argued that these septic tanks would be useless if the marina were built.

Hurt Shad Fishing

The marina would also cut off an access to the river by shad fishermen in the area, thereby depriving them of a business opportunity.

Walking Tours of Stockade Open Doors to Historic Past

By JEAN F. DOLAN

Kingston's Old Stockade area once again opens the doors of history Thursday as the July walking tour starts 2 p. m. from the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Among the interiors of historic buildings open to tour visitors is the Tappan House which serves as home for Wiltwyck Chapter, Daughters of American Revolution.

The building abounds with evidence of the historic early years of Kingston and the mid-Hudson Valley. Over one of the mantels in the house is a portrait of one of the seven men who voted "no" on the first New York State Constitution which was drafted here.

A state senator from 1784 to 1795, Jacobus Swartwout served in the legislature during the formative years of state government. Described as a vigorous man of great physical strength and personal courage, Swartwout was a captain in the French and Indian Wars and later attained the rank of general as a result of service to his country in the Revolutionary War.

1817 Original

The portrait hanging in the DAR Chapter house is a copy of an 1817 original. The artist who made the copy in 1849 was no less than Kingston's own John Vanderlyn who achieved international fame at the zenith of his career.

The Tappan House is one of the oldest still standing in Kingston. During 1777 when the first constitutional convention was in session and later when the British burned Kingston, the house was owned by Henry Sleight, a very prominent citizen and village president at the time.

Fortunately this stone house was not destroyed by the British holocaust. The floor boards are the original lumber, measuring up to 18 and a half inches wide.

Truth-in-Lending Hearing

Consumers who are the victims of retail credit schemes which cost them hundreds of thousands of dollars annually through hidden charges, litigation costs, penalties, excessive interest, and other expenses will be able to air their views at public hearings which Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz said today he will schedule this fall.

"Loopholes in the law must be closed, particularly as they relate to consumer installment credit and the borrowing of money to finance many of the ordinary present-day home comforts and conveniences and which cost the consumer much more than reasonable finance charges," the Attorney General said.

Top Priority

Top priority on the agenda for the public hearings will be a measure which Lefkowitz has proposed for a New York State "truth-in-lending" law. The Attorney General recommended such a bill to the Legislature during the 1967 session but it was not passed. Attorney General Lefkowitz said he will recommend the bill again to the 1968 session of the Legislature and urge its passage.

"Many lending institutions are now recognizing the need for establishing realistic standards in the extension of credit and providing the borrower with a simple and candid statement of the charges which he will have to pay," he said.

Another area which will be explored at the hearings is the sale of installment contracts by retail outlets to finance agencies which under certain legal conditions, receive the protection of existing law as "holders in due course."

"A new look should be taken at this ancient principle of the law in the light of the present day credit economy of the nation," Lefkowitz said.

"Should installment buyers and borrowers be given greater protection against the dishonest merchant who sells his merchandise, transfers the buyer's contract to a finance agency and cares little whether his promises and warranties are fulfilled as to quality and performance or whether the consumer is satisfied with the goods or services involved? Should the buyer be provided with legal defense against this type of dealing? These questions cry out for public examination," the Attorney General said.

Offered Defense

The Attorney General also noted that a bill which he had recommended to the Legislature and which unfortunately did not pass would have enabled the installment purchaser of goods and services to assert as a defense the non-performance of the services or delivery of the merchandise more than 10 days after the contract is signed.

This measure would help consumers who have contracted for the purchase of merchandise or services under installment contracts where service to the merchant is a part of the contract. Under present law failure to perform the services is no defense to the buyer as against an assignee of the contract. He may have to pay for the services he does not receive. Such legislation would permit the buyer to raise the defense of non-performance as is now permitted against the retailer in the case of retail installment obligations.

Attorney General Lefkowitz said the hearings will permit representatives of all segments of the consumer market to testify including banks, other lending institutions, consumer groups and the public.

Other proposed measures in the field of consumer credit and related matters which will be discussed at the hearings include:

1. A bill to prevent the entry of judgment upon default in appearing and answering a summons and complaint until the lapse of at least seven days after the default has taken place. This bill was previously introduced on the recommendation of the attorney general and is a corollary to another measure he recommended to require that process servers be licensed and empower the Secretary of State's office to make periodic checks to make certain process servers are complying with the law. Both bills will be introduced again in 1968.

"Persistent complaints received by my office, particularly from persons in lower income brackets, reveal that in many cases where default judgments have been taken no personal service of the legal process ever was made," Attorney General Lefkowitz said.

2. A bill to require that credit agreements and retail installment contracts be printed in 10-point or 12-point bold type. At present the law requires 8 or 10 point type.

Uterine Cancer Booklet Ready For Distribution

An informative new pamphlet on cancer of the uterus is now available without charge from the Ulster County Unit of the American Cancer Society, it was announced today.

The 12-page publication describes in understandable terms how cancer of the uterus (womb) develops and how it is treated. It also explains the life-saving potential of the "Pap" test through which uterine cancer can be detected in early and most curable forms. The inexpensive test is given to millions of women annually as part of their routine health checkups.

Also touching on progress in research against cancer, the pamphlet stresses the importance of statistical studies which have indicated, for example, that uterine cancer occurs more frequently among married than single women, and among women who have borne children.

It reports that in the past 25 years the death rate from uterine cancer has dropped almost 50 per cent among white women and 35 per cent among Negro women.

Free copies are obtainable from the Ulster County Unit's office at 400 Broadway, Kingston.

Senate House Area Parking Discussed

Representatives of Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce met Tuesday this week in Albany with a representative of New York State Historic Trust, purchasers last week of the Senate Parking lot between Fair Street and Clinton Avenue, adjacent to the Senate House and its Museum.

S. James Matthews, Chamber president, announced that plans were revealed to the group for action within the near future. This will convert the former commercial parking lot, operated first by the Uptown merchants and then cooperatively by the Ulster County Savings Bank and The State of New York National Bank, into a parking facility for 34 cars and several buses, plus appropriate walks, lawns and plantings to add to the scenic attractiveness of the property.

Plans revealed by William Tyrrell a representative of the Trust, indicated that parking would be for Senate House visitors only. Access from Fair Street would be closed, with both ingress and egress to the parking lot on the Clinton Avenue side. Tyrrell indicated that it is expected that work will get under way shortly taking advantage of the fall planting season for the installation of trees and other shrubbery to landscape the area.

In the meantime Matthews indicated that Tyrrell and the Historic Trust will take under consideration the possibility of temporarily opening the parking lot until such time as alternate parking facilities may be developed or until the Historic Trust is ready to begin construction of the new facilities, whichever comes first. Tyrrell indicated that an answer should be forthcoming on this decision within the week. Earlier, numerous merchants had expressed concern over the sudden and unannounced closing of the parking lot immediately prior to a heavy retail promotion by Uptown merchants.

While expressing some regret at the inconveniences suffered by the closing of the lot to business traffic, Matthews was enthusiastic about the state's intention to promptly develop the area adjacent to the Senate House. He noted that this will be a strong, functional addition to the tourist attraction as well as greatly enhancing and beautifying the Uptown's traffic flow.

At the same time he expressed the hope that the city government and the urban renewal agency would act with all possible speed to replace the parking spaces lost to the development of the Senate House facilities and add the needed new spaces in the Uptown area. He pledged the full and continued support of the Chamber of Commerce to the accomplishment of these goals through its appropriate committee activities.

Turbulent Channel

Fog, gales and rough water are common in the English Channel. Whirlpools, cross currents and powerful tides are created in the shallow trough by meeting of the Atlantic Ocean and North Sea.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has ruled that any serviceman who loses a relative in Vietnam may be kept out of the war for at least six months. If the serviceman already is in Vietnam, he may be removed from the war zone for a similar period.

In either case, he must apply for the special treatment in writing himself — his father, mother, or wife cannot.

The language reads this way: "Where a member of a family is killed or dies as a result of Vietnam service, other members of the same family will, on request, either be deferred from assignment to Vietnam for a period of at least six months following date of death or, if serving in Vietnam, be reassigned therefrom for the same minimum period."

The directive does not define "family" and no figures were issued on how many families have more than one member now in Vietnam.

The provision appears in a Defense Department directive establishing uniform policies among the armed services governing assignment of military personnel to Vietnam.

It states a policy that "assignments to duty in Vietnam will be shared as equitably as practicable by all members of the Armed Forces."

Erie Has Fires

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—Two fires, one causing $150,000 damage, were set Tuesday night in the same Negro section of this northwestern Pennsylvania city hit by racial disturbances two nights last week, police said.

A rag processing plant was destroyed by one of the blazes and its owner estimated the $150,000 damages.

Police said the second fire, three blocks away, caused only slight damage to a city surplus goods warehouse because they received a tip and firemen were able to put it out quickly.

About 200 Negroes, mostly in their twenties, gathered at the fires, but police using K-9 dogs cleared the area. There were no arrests.

Last Wednesday and Thursday violence broke out in Erie's Negro community and eight persons were arrested as cars were stoned and a store window shattered.

Voting Age Battle Looms

Pocketbook Issues Concern Legislature

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Members of the State Constitutional Convention veered away from the emotion-packed voting-age debate today and turned their attention to "pocketbook" issues.

Following Tuesday's approval of a proposal that would set the voting age at 21 but allow the Legislature to establish a minimum age ceiling as low as 18, the delegates today were faced with a measure that would permit taxation of an ordinary savings account.

The proposal that would allow a tax on so called "intangible" assets such as savings accounts, insurance policies, accounts receivable and mortgages, was one of several on the calendar.

First, however, the delegates had to dispose of a backlog of amendments offered to the voting-age amendment, which was hotly debated Monday and Tuesday. The general feeling expressed by the convention's leadership Tuesday night was that the various proposals would gain swift consideration.

Also docketed for discussion were proposals to set standards for literacy and residency.

The State Commerce Department and several business organizations have expressed strong distaste for the proposition that would permit taxation of intangible assets.

They have argued that such taxation would discourage the establishment of new business in the state and drive existing firms from the state to less heavily taxed areas.

Before the action on the lower-voting age, the convention's committee on Natural Resources and Agriculture released a report Tuesday in which it recommended that the basic "forever wild" provision dealing with the state forest preserve be retained.

On the voting age, Democrats mustered their majority muscle to ram through the proposal leaving the age at 21 but empowering the Legislature to set the age as low as 18.

The plan was approved 95-83, with all 81 Republicans present in opposition. Two Democrats, Matthew J. Troy of Brooklyn and William J. Rooney of the Bronx, joined the GOP side.

Amendment Approved

The amendment to the proposal, approved Monday, which would have set the age at 21 without granting legislative change, was introduced by Delegate Harold Fisher, D-Brooklyn, who is chief counsel to Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia, president of the convention.

Fisher said that it was his desire that the Legislature would not be able to raise the voting age after lowering it. He said also that he believed the Legislature probably would go to a 20-year limit first and then act again if experience proved the lower age was a benefit.

"The Legislature might have to wrestle with this immediately, but wrestle with it they should," Fisher declared.

Republicans, led by Assembly Minority leader Perry B. Duryea Jr. and former Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino, derided the proposal as an abdication to the Legislature of the Convention's responsibilities.

"The Legislature has never dealt with this problem and never will. It is absolutely shocking to abdicate the Convention's responsibility," Duryea charged.

Lose Faith

Carlino said that the Convention's action could cause the public to lose faith in the delegates' ability to deal with the problems it faced.

RAIL STRIKE UNNECESSARY

The rails were all but shut down across the country before Congress woke up to the peril and acted to stop it.

Congress had been alerted time and again to the danger it ran by failing to agree on legislation that would prevent a strike, but there was no meeting of minds between the two houses on the type of legislation needed.

When the trains ground to a halt, and President Johnson called the leadership to the White House to hear reports from Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara that already the war effort was being hurt, and from other members of the Cabinet that the health and safety of the nation was being jeopardized, only then did the leadership promise to act at once.

This was a strike that never needed to start. It was unnecessary and for that reason wicked, not because the unions struck but because Congress did not have the guts to take proper action in time to outlaw a strike.

The effect on their election next year counted more with Congress than the security, health and safety of the nation. It was a blot on the record of a Congress that was more diffident than statesmanlike.

What Congress did after the strike was called, it could and should have done before the strike. The legislation was ready. Each house had passed its own version of the bill. They could not agree on a final one.

The Senate version provided for a 90-day no-strike period during which a presidential commission would handle the problem but the trains would continue to run. For 30 days, the board would seek a voluntary agreement. Failing that, it would use the next 30 days to draw up its own terms for a settlement. After a final 30 days, if no voluntary agreement were reached, the board's settlement would be effective for two years.

The House, with its full membership up for election next year, balked at the compulsory arbitration in the last 30 days. But under the pressure of the strike, it complied. It should have put the nation's welfare above its own and complied in the first place. People are not going to forget how the House pussyfooted until it was forced to act.

U THANT'S BURMESE 'EXAMPLE' FAILS HIM

Burma wanted to go it alone. Its dictator, General Ne Win, thought he could find safety in economic isolation, in strict neutrality, and in a program of nationalism combined with the "Burmese way to socialism."

At the UN, in New York, U Thant, the Burmese diplomat who had risen to the exalted post of Secretary General of the world organization, extolled the wisdom of his native land. The way to peace in Vietnam, so he kept intimating, was to encourage the Vietnamese of both south and north to emulate the Revolutionary Council that had placed Burma safely between the Communist and capitalist camps.

Since newsmen couldn't get behind the scenes in Burma to give the outside world any really definitive reporting on the progress of Burmese socialism, it was hard to confute U Thant. Nevertheless, some "hard" information came out of Rangoon and Mandalay from time to time. Burma had once been the most flourishing rice exporter in Southeast Asia. But the business had gone to pot under socialist price controls, for local farmers saw no sense in producing for a market that had been rigged to deny them the profits they could have had in a world that has been starving for food.

General Ne Win thought that Burma could afford a temporary economic depression as long as the nation's traditional austerity made for order and peace. And U Thant, observing that the Red Chinese didn't seem to be bothering Burma, continued to make intellectual capital of the fact that his native country, along with other inner Asian border states such as Nepal and Afghanistan, was exempted from the clash of armies and the duplicity of guerrilla infiltration.

What U Thant failed to notice, however, was the presence of overseas Red Chinese inside Burma. General Ne Win had once wished that he could cut his country off from mainland Asia by "atomic scissors" and float it out to sea for additional safety. But he couldn't change geography, and the local Red Chinese were there. They affronted Burmese sensibilities by wearing their Mao Tse-tung badges. And, one day, the tensions exploded with mob attacks on Chinese in Rangoon and in other Burmese cities. Peking responded by demanding an apology not only to Red China, but to "the masses of overseas Chinese in Burma." And Ne Win was denounced as a "Fascist" and a "super-reactionary" who had ruined his country by his fake socialism. Meanwhile, Red guerrillas began moving in the Burmese countryside, abetting the chronic insurgency of the Kachin, Karen, and Shan tribesmen who have always wanted autonomy.

So isolation, or neutrality, or a policy of non-commitment, has not, after all, saved Burma. U Thant's great example turns out to be no example at all.

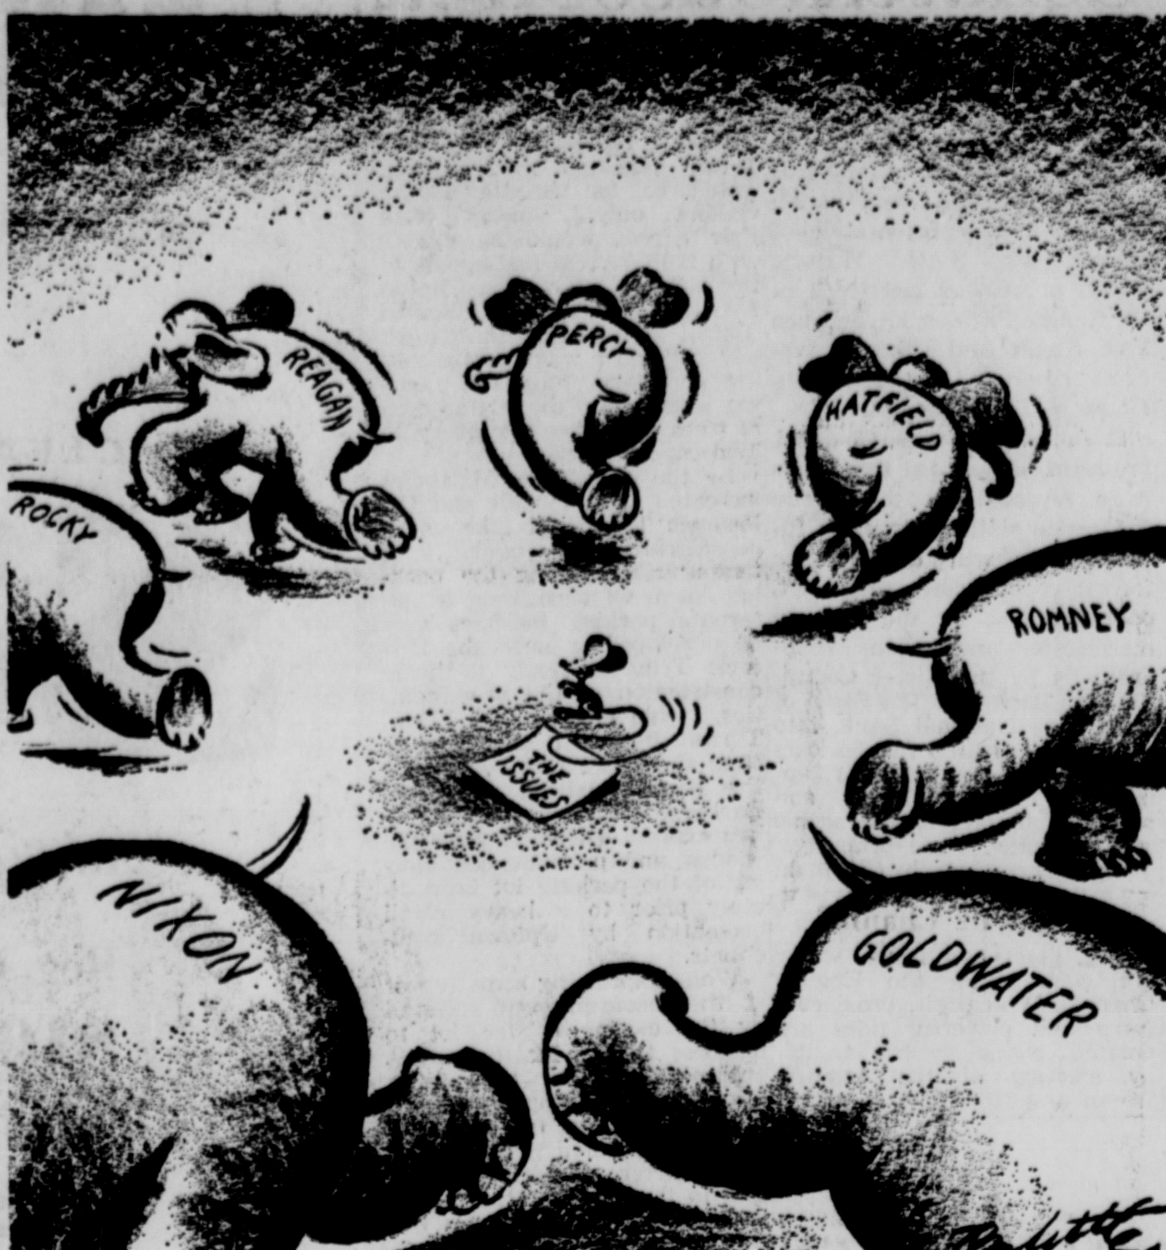

There is no use lecturing U Thant, however, for the isolation that General Ne Win decreed in 1962 is being progressively embraced by western countries that should know better. All the nations of western Europe, even including West Germany, want to be left alone. According to them, Vietnam is America's problem — and America would be well advised to try to liquidate its Southeast Asian commitment by following the deGaulle recipe for getting out. Western Europe doesn't even appear to be concerned about the prospect of Middle Eastern oil falling under Communist control.

Isolationism is catching. The dispatch of three C-130 transports from the U. S. to help quell "mercenary" rebellion has provoked bitter opposition in the U. S. Senate. Since the Communists don't seem involved in the present Congo troubles, the practical wisdom of the Administration in sending the transports to help the Congolese General Mobutu may be questioned. But the mood of Congress doesn't appear to be related to the wisdom or non-wisdom of a specific intervention. We are evidently working up a revulsion against any sort of interference in foreign troubles, whether or not they are dangerous to the U. S.

So the world waits for the spread of international chaos. What was a mistake for Burma's General Ne Win could be a mistake for all of us. If U Thant can't find a better policy for the UN than extolling the "Burmese way," we shall all succumb to Communist nuclear blackmail on the day after tomorrow.

Henry J. Taylor Says

Poverty Program Is Costly Pork Barrel

President Johnson and Sargent Shriver, wallowing in the pork barrel known as the poverty program, have increased their pitch into the abyss — with other people's money.

Fellow peasants, we're being had.

The incredible billions on billions that Boobland decisions, colossal foreign policy failures, vote-buying, bad judgment and cover-ups have cost us are the biggest single factor in our tax load. And our tax load, in turn, is the biggest single factor in our cost of living.

The average working American now devotes two hours and 25 minutes in every eight-hour working day, every day, to pay the taxes.

Instead of coming to work at 9 a. m. you could start each day at 11:25 — except for your taxes, as computed by the reputable Tax Foundation, Inc. Instead of stopping at 5 p. m. you could go home at 2:35 — except for your taxes.

In short, whatever the Washington Robin Hoods of the Red Ink spend or waste comes right out of our hide.

War or no war in Vietnam, we're now asked to pay $2.06 billion (up from $1.61 billion) in the new fiscal year to include some things you'd never think could have come out of any place but a nut house.

For example, unknown to the public, Shriver wants American companies to spend $250 per worker-trainee on employees that his bureaucrats would send. This would be for a so-called "orientation program" during the first 90 days. If the employee quits at any time up to two years we taxpayers would repay the company this cost, plus its loss in wage outlay resulting from the worker's under-average output.

Can you imagine the poverty war paper-pushers' paradise this would mean?

If the worker they put in starts at $2 per hour, works a total 520 hours but with an estimated "productivity yield per hour" worth only $1 and then quits, or drifts away, the company gets paid the difference. This difference of $520, plus the $250 training cost, nicks the taxpayers $770 per each trainee.

Shriver wants to put the bee on companies to take at least 100,000 for which his minions intend to search. Only 10,000 who quit would cost us a tidy $7,770,000.

If the man quits after 21 months, Shriver increases the wage rate that this worker did not receive and calls it $2.30 per hour instead of $2. Then the Shriver formula calls what the worker really earned $1.90. And this still calls on the taxpayers to pay $260.

Nobody has even suggested how it is possible to fire one of Shriver's placements this side of a lawsuit or a riot in the town. But a skeptic in Shriver's own opulent office summed up one secret problem with this story:

A company employment manager asked an applicant why he left his last job. "Illness," he replied. "What kind of illness?" the manager asked. "I really don't know," came the answer. "They just said they were sick of me."

Shriver's requested $2.06 billion — Hey! That's our money! — also includes $472 million for a sloganer's dream called Head Start — Follow Through, and $649 million for programs that further mess up the Labor Department, their proposed vehicle. President Johnson grandly announced last fall the abolishment of this department by combining it with the Commerce Department as "an economy." But nothing happened. At all.

In fact, the Labor Department, too, has newly launched what Shriver calls an "out-reach program" ($5 million) for Washington, D. C., to interview unemployed in their homes "for job training referral," a special convenience. And so it goes.

Irrepressible Shriver has set up a publicity budget of $2.4 million and established a group among 110 national women's organizations and brought Mrs. Robert S. McNamara into the act. The wife of the Secretary of Defense was made chairman of the Washington conference, which included 400 officials, called to lobby in Congress and among companies for all this.

The House's supine Labor and Education Committee has started hearings (quietly) on Shriver's $2.06 billion pitch. Informed of these facts the taxpayer public could chop off this waste by a nationwide roar of protest to this weak and padded committee — and I hope it will.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

This is the time of year when school dropouts make the irrevocable decision. It starts as a hint around the house, and ends as a full-scale war between the student and the parents. "I've had it," the kid says. "No more school for me."

"Go get a job," someone shouts. "Work in a factory all your life." I'm not a domestic umpire, but I'm possessed of the feeling that there is something to be said in favor of dropouts, and in favor of fearful parents too.

Of the two disputants, no one can deny that the mothers and fathers are unselfish. Any kid with enough money and patience can go through college. A little judicious cramming, a bit of cheating, a few studious friends and the dolt matriculates like wet sand through an hour glass. In itself, formal education is circumscribed information. Jam it into some heads in proper order, and you have a well-informed parrot.

Textbooks represent the sum of man's experience in many fields. It is no longer necessary to hand a little child two apples to demonstrate that one and one equal two. He can get it from a book. The same applies to a star a billion light years away from the earth. Or the fact that the islands of Langerhans on the pancreas serve as a sugar thermostat for the body.

The question is: What will he do with the sum of man's experience? It's a tool for reaching a frontier of knowledge. If he uses it to add a lot of additional information, he's a credit to the educational system. If, on the other hand, he spends his time working out a formula for beating the horses, or devising a pats for making himself irresistible to women, or finding dreams in a bar bottle — better he should be a dropout now.

I was a school dropout. Study was fascinating, but the metronomic manner of teaching drove me out of class. Any Who's Who will tell you, with inexorable harshness, that I finished elementary school and put in a little time at a secretarial school. What it does not state is that, once out of school, I began to study on my own. Forty-five years later, I still jam my face into subjects as diverse as abnormal psychology and poetry.

If school work is a bit incompatible with the temperament of the student, I say he should remain in school because he's not there to enjoy himself in the first place. If it is totally incompatible — if, to use his phrase, it bugs him — then permit him to drop out, provided that he first makes up his mind what he proposes to do with his life.

I'm no bright eyes, no paragon of intellect. And yet, every time I concluded a college lecture, I asked random students what they planned to be in life. I'm not sure, but I think the positive response was one in 14. The others shrugged, and said they didn't have time to think about it.

made a present of a convertible. This represents parents at their worst, but, as Dr. Richard Hoffman said, "It's too late to cure them. Stick to the kids."

There is a mysterious substance in some human called "drive." Others refer to it as "ambition." Aggressive drive, I feel, is more important than formal classroom work because, without the first, second is useless.

If I had sons — and I do not — and they could not or would not study, I would insist that they do a certain amount of time in school and then I would demand that they select a career in keeping with their ignorance. A century ago, it was possible to indenture a boy to a first-class carpenter or cabinet maker for five years. When he completed his time, he was ready to open his own business as a competent craftsman.

We've lost that patent. The unions insist that apprentices be paid beyond his worth, and it becomes increasingly difficult to break in as a plumber, an electrician, brick layer, tile setter, mechanic, and so forth. They want $80 a week for openers, when they aren't worth 10. Looking back over my shoulder, I can see that a strong formal education is always the best. But knowledge is not the key to success; proper usage and exploitation of knowledge makes the man. On the other hand, it is a waste of good money and time to send the witless one through a fine university.

FCC Ruling Will Cost U.S. Treasury $80 Million Yearly

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 18—Latest estimates indicate that a ruling made a fortnight ago by the Federal Communications Commission may prove to be the most costly the national economy has experienced at the hands of the government in recent years. Not only will the U.S. Treasury lose approximately 80 million dollars a year in tax revenues hereafter, but the loss in market value of the stock of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company will run from two to eight billion dollars, depending upon the length of the period measured.

This is a high price for the American people to pay in order to make a saving of approximately three cents on a one-dollar long-distance call.

There are 3.1 million stockholders of the telephone company. Since the FCC decision was announced on July 5, the market value of the stock has fallen by 2.2 billion dollars. This, however, is only part of the loss to stockholders. For on Oct. 27, 1965, when the Federal Communications Commission started its investigation, the stock was selling at 67 dollars a share, and it has declined from that date by about 14 dollars a share. This 22 per cent drop means an aggregate loss in market value of the company stock of 7.8 billions.

While there is no indication that the present dividend rate of $2.20 dollars will be cut, it is predicted that dividends will probably not rise as rapidly in the future as would have been possible with a higher rate of earnings.

What has happened is that a governmental agency has told a private company not only that its rates to the customer must be reduced but that, if more efficient and better methods are discovered which permit the company to earn more money, it will not be allowed to make a larger profit than before. Its rate of return on invested capital is not to be permitted to go above 7½ per cent. This puts a penalty on efficiency and ingenuity as well as on the use of technological improvements.

Nowhere in the Constitution is there any provision which permits the government to fix a ceiling on the profits of certain segments of private industry. Taxes can be imposed or duties placed on imports, but all this must be done uniformly. To say that some private companies are not to be permitted to earn more than a fixed per cent on their investment is to impair incentive and discourage improvements in service.

The 80-million-dollar-a-year loss caused by the FCC ruling arises out of the reduced receipts by the treasury in the corporate taxes collected from the telephone company. Other losses also will be derived from the drop in excise taxes on lower telephone toll charges and in personal income taxes because higher dividends will not be available due to the rate cut. This doesn't take into account the loss in revenue which would have come to the treasury through capital-gains taxes as stockholders sold shares that appreciated in value. Now there will be less revenue because of tax credits obtained when capital losses are sustained on the shares sold which have gone down in value.

It is too early to appraise the total damage that may be done from an investor standpoint by the latest FCC ruling. But prospective investors will consider whether, when in a good year the market value of the stock goes upward, this may be followed the next year with an FCC ruling compelling the company to lower its rates still further and diminish its profits.

Many people will wonder whether all this uncertainty and loss to the treasury is necessary in order to save three cents on a long-distance telephone call.

Several countries of the world have government-operated telephone systems, but they are not efficient. Visitors from foreign lands are amazed at the remarkable telephone service available through privately owned companies. (Copyright, 1967, Publishers-Hall Syndicate)

Johnson and Military Remain Deeply Divided Over Vietnam

By THOMAS B. ROSS

WASHINGTON, July 15—

Despite a public papering over of their differences, President Johnson and the military remain deeply divided on the war in Vietnam.

The President took Gen. William C. Westmoreland into his parlor last Thursday for the purpose of quelling reports that they were at odds on troop needs for the war.

Confronted by a request from the Commander-in-Chief for a public affirmation of agreement, the General replied: "Yes, sir."

But back at the Pentagon, where staff officers can talk anonymously without putting their stars on the line, the counterfire continued.

Westmoreland had asked, they said, for two to five new divisions, 70,000 to 175,000 U. S. troops, and came away with a guarantee of only one division, 35,000 men.

The rest of his needs will have to be met by the Vietnamese or the Koreans, either directly as fighting men or indirectly as replacements for U. S. support troops, which could then be sent into combat.

Whether such a plan can work or work in time, military men say, is highly questionable.

Westmoreland had recommended that the new troops be on hand, ready for battle, by next spring, but the integration of untrained foreigners into the U. S. military machine could cause a major delay.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff warned that the United States could lose the initiative in the war unless Westmoreland's request was met promptly.

'Stalemate Creature'

At their summit meeting in the White House living quarters Thursday the President expressed annoyance at "this stalemate creature" and Westmoreland agreed that such reports were "complete fiction." Yet the general's own request carried the implication that the war would degenerate into a standoff unless he got the men he wanted.

The President and Defense Sec. Robert S. McNamara kept saying that 20,000 to 30,000 new troops would soon be on the way to Vietnam to complete a previous authorization of 480,000.

But the Pentagon announced earlier in the week that 464,000 were already there, leaving only 16,000 to go. Despite repeated assurances, there was no explanation of the discrepancy.

Nor was there any official estimate of how many men remain in the military manpower pool. Privately, however, Pentagon specialists calculated that not more than 50,000 are left.

Since McNamara ruled out a reserve callup, a draft increase and an extension of the one-year tour of duty in Vietnam, all signs pointed to a leveling off of the U. S. troop commitment at slightly more than 500,000 men.

That is less than military men believe necessary for a vigorous prosecution of the war in the face of increased activity by the 296,000 Viet Cong.

and a shift toward a more defensive U. S. strategy over the next year.

That, in turn, would appear to suit the current military, economic, political, and international needs of the administration.

McNamara requires time to try to change ancient army habits and reduce the high level of rear echelon personnel in Vietnam. (Less than half of the men there now can be classified as combat or combat support troops.)

The budget bureau urgently requires a tight rein on Vietnam spending — now running at the rate of $2 billion a month — if the federal deficit, already approaching $20 billion for the current fiscal year, does not escalate out of sight.

The Democratic Party needs assurance that it will not go into the 1968 political campaign with the voters laboring under a huge tax increase.

And the President, focal point of all these problems, also requires a cooling off of the war if he is to cut election-year casualties, promote an accommodation with the Russians and run again as the candidate of peace.

Washington News

By BRUCE BLOSSAT,

Washington Correspondent

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—

No genuinely new alternatives are being offered to present U.S. policy in Vietnam, but occasionally old ones—like Gen. James Gavin's "retreat to coastal enclaves"—stir fresh flurries of interest.

John Kenneth Galbraith, chairman of Americans for Democratic Action, is one among many who recently have sought to revive the enclave proposal as a reasonable way out of the tough and seemingly indecisive war in Vietnam.

The heart of the plan is that American and South Vietnamese forces yield to the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese regulars those portions of South Vietnam now under more or less effective Communist control. We would commit ourselves to holding only selected defense bastions around Saigon, Hue and similar areas.

It is important to understand what this proposal is. It is not a plan for a coalition government or a neutral government in South Vietnam. It is, in hard fact, a plan for the partition of South Vietnam, with ragged, erratic, shifting partition lines corresponding roughly to the perimeters of the suggested coastal enclaves.

If any negotiations between Hanoi and Washington were ever to follow such partitioning, it is inconceivable that the Communists would consider bartering away any part of their controlled area to some future "central authority" in Saigon.

The example of neighboring Laos is highly instructive on this score.

Under the much-talked-of 1954 Geneva agreements, the native Communist forces, the Pathet Lao, were not to be disbanded but were to be restricted to two northern Laotian provinces.

The language of the pact made it sound as if these forces were merely being quartered in these provinces, pending some future disposition. In fact, the Pathet Lao had largely effective control of the areas.

Thereafter, it became quickly clear that the Pathet Lao regarded these provinces as "theirs." They held them tightly. No central government in the capital city of Vientiane, whether neutral or coalition or whatever, has ever extended the thinnest shred of its authority to these areas. The Reds have used them as a springboard for assault on the non-Communist portions of Laos.

Though not annexed by Hanoi, the two Pathet Lao provinces have in later years become a working appendage of North Vietnam, whose regular forces now carry the burden of the continuing aggressions against the rest of Laos.

Thus the practical effect of the 1954 agreements which gave the Pathet Lao a haven in the north was to partition Laos immediately. That, on a perhaps larger scale, is the almost certain consequence of any abandonment to Hanoi of Red-controlled zones in South Vietnam.

That would not be the end of it. Laos, as indicated, has other lessons.

The Laotian experience suggests strongly that Hanoi's appetite would only be whetted by being handed the spoils of partial victory in South Vietnam. There is absolutely nothing in Hanoi's record to support the notion that it would negotiate to win our departure from iron-clad enclaves and the subsequent establishment of some kind of coalition government.

The real expectation is that the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese regulars would subject any U.S. military enclaves to the fiercest and most concentrated attacks of the entire Vietnamese war. Their recent thrusts out from the demilitarized zone at the 17th parallel show their capacity, even now, for inflicting heavy damage.

We should be under no glib illusions about the skill of this adversary. We are not dealing with amateurs who have put aside a wooden plow to pick up a rusty rifle and just happen to have gotten off some lucky shots at U.S. Marines and soldiers.

Careful reporters who have interviewed Marine veterans tested in combat with the VC and the North Vietnamese regulars say these men regard the enemy as the toughest and most skillful they have ever encountered. They put them down as superior fighters to the Japanese, the North Koreans, and the Chinese who fought in Korea.

Properly convinced of their prowess, emboldened by our yielding, heavily supplied by Moscow and Peking sensing larger victory, the Reds could be counted on to give the enclaves a constant rain of fire. On its face, the enclave proposal is a prescription for staged, painful costly U.S. withdrawal—without compensating political gain.

Neck and Neck Race

Chicago and Miami Beach Battle for GOP Convention

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON—Chicago and Miami Beach remained in a neck and neck race for the 1968 Republican National Convention after the GOP site selection committee postponed a final decision for two weeks.

The stiff competition Chicago is facing was evidenced by the fact that Miami Beach was given extra time to solve several problems in connection with its offer.

Several members of the site committee, including its chairman, Ray Bliss, will visit the Florida city before the next committee meeting set for Friday, July 28, in Washington.

"At that time," Bliss told reporters, "we hope to reach a final decision on the convention site."

Bliss, who also is the Republican national chairman, said one of the problems with the Miami Beach offer was the allocation of rooms in the hotels. "They did not understand that we wanted to get as many rooms as possible in as few hotels as possible so that we would not have to split delegations between hotels."

After an all-day meeting here with Chicago and Miami Beach representatives, Bliss said, "We have the Chicago offer down to where we have an understanding on every point." Both cities, he added, "improved their offers over what they were originally."

Chicago's offer to replace 2,000 seats on the International Amphitheater floor with wide, upholstered seats—free of charge—was considered an acceptable solution to the problem of the Amphitheater's narrow, hard wooden seats. This had disturbed a couple of corpulent members of the site committee, who had difficulty sitting side by side in the old-fashioned straight-back chairs. Bliss said he wanted to take another look at Miami Beach to spot-check some of the hotels where television technicians would stay. "When we were there before, last March," he said, "we only looked at the deluxe hotels and we did not stay long enough to give the whole setup a careful inspection."

The visit was cut short, he explained, because the Miami Beach Convention Hall was unsuitable and the city said it could not afford to enlarge it. Since then, he noted, they have changed their mind.

To Build Addition

They are now pledged to build an addition onto the hall, to provide necessary working space for television and the press and add 3,000 more seats.

The $1,500,000 this will cost will be financed by a 2 per cent resort tax on hotels. Legislation authorizing the Miami Beach levy became law at midnight Thursday without the signature of Gov. Claude R. Kirk Jr.

The Illinois Legislature has authorized a 1 per cent tax on Chicago hotels and motels to help defray the costs of the convention if it goes to Chicago. Bliss commented that the site committee had originally planned to reach a decision by May, but had delayed it at Chicago's request to give the legislature time to pass the bill.

The Miami Beach delegation, led by Mayor John D. Dwyer, said it was confident it could get the larger room commitment in the major hotels that the site committee requested. They emphasized that their Convention Hall will hold 18,000 and that all of these seats would be upholstered with arm rests.

The Chicago Amphitheater will accommodate only 13,000, which will be reduced to 12,800 once the 2,000 old seats on the floor are replaced with wider numbers.

No Money Competition

The money offer of the two cities is considered close enough so that there is no competition on that point. Each city has offered $650,000 cash plus fringe benefits. Chicago estimates that its "goods and services" will add $116,000 to its offer, while Miami Beach considers its extras will be worth $200,000.

"Each city has pluses and minuses," said one high-level Republican. He pointed out that while Miami Beach has a modern convention hall, it only has a 35-foot-high ceiling. "The higher ceiling of the Chicago Amphitheater is better in some ways for a convention."

There are more eating places right in the Amphitheater, he said, but there are good restaurants only a block or so away from the Miami Beach hall.

Each city has plenty of hotels, he continued, but those in Miami Beach are in closer proximity to the Convention Hall. On the other hand, he said, "Chicago has larger hotels. One of them will accommodate 2,000 persons but the largest hotel in Miami Beach will hold only 1,000."

James Worthy, the chairman of the Chicago Non-Partisan Committee who came prepared with a $65,000 certified check to offer as a down payment, said Chicago would make an identical $766,000 offer to the Democrats. Miami Beach also will offer the Democrats the same package as the Republicans, said Mayor Dwyer.

Both delegation heads said that if they failed to win the Republican convention they would try to capture the Democratic convention.

Arthur Goldberg May Retire Soon

By EDWIN A. LAHEY
Chicago Daily News Service

NEW YORK — Arthur J. Goldberg will complete two years as the ambassador to the United Nations on July 26. He will be 59 years old on Aug. 8.

The next phase of Goldberg's life has become a conversation piece in New York and Washington.

This is particularly true since the Vietnam War looks more and more like something that the next generation will have to cope with.

There is no immediate prospect of Goldberg's departure from the U. S. mission in New York.

But those who know Goldberg best are certain that he would find it impossible to become another time server in the government. When Goldberg feels that he has contributed all he can, he will take a walk, without rancor, without any dramatics.

In all likelihood, Goldberg will return to the practice of law, under self-imposed restrictions which would keep him out of a lot of business. He would bend over backward, for example, to avoid the appearance of "selling" his name to appear in a case before his former colleagues on the U. S. Supreme Court.

A political career is out of the question for Goldberg. His name was dropped around here for a while as a possible Democratic nominee for the U. S. Senate to run against Sen. Jacob Javits in 1968. There never was any possibility that Goldberg would have done this.

Registered in Chicago

Goldberg is still a registered voter in Chicago. Theoretically he could be a possible contender for a Senate seat from Illinois next year, in a race against Sen. Everett M. Dirksen. Or he could be a possible replacement for Gov. Otto Kerner as the Democratic nominee for governor.

But even if party leaders were thinking of this (and there is no reason to believe they are) Goldberg would have none of it. He has been away from Chicago for so long that the thought of asking Illinois voters to give him a new lease on public life is ridiculous to the ambassador.

Goldberg is going broke on his U.N. job, despite a $28,000 salary, an entertainment allowance, and an embassy residence in the Waldorf Towers. He and his wife Dorothy have made entertainment a tool for cultivating international good will in the 122-member United Nations. The burden of social representation has eaten steadily into Goldberg's personal fortunes.

The remaining stretch of life's highway would look very pleasant to Goldberg if there were a probability that President Johnson would give him back that black nightgown that he took from him two years ago, in drafting him off the Supreme Court bench.

South Vietnam Election
Not Entirely Encouraging AffairBy RAYMOND S. COFFEY
Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

SAIGON—South Vietnam's presidential election is now seven weeks off and legally the campaign is not supposed to begin until Aug. 3.

But the race for the big prize to be won on Sept. 3 has already become a bruising, bitter, occasionally antic — and not entirely encouraging affair.

One of the 17 presidential candidates has been formally challenged on his right to run on the possibly unique grounds that he is a "philanderer."

A sometime vice presidential candidate felt called upon to make a public announcement that he had not committed suicide, as wild-fire rumor had it after he was pushed out of the race.

Another presidential candidate, only a few months ago hailed as one of the heroes of the present military government, suddenly finds himself accused of being a Communist or "neutralist," which is local coinage for anyone the government considers too eager to negotiate peace.

Formal challenges have been made — and are yet to be decided — against no fewer than 11 of the presidential tickets, including the military ticket of Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu for president and Premier Ky for vice president.

There have been arrests of well-known intellectuals who have suddenly been discovered to be Viet Cong propagandists, and there are quiet rumors about the possibility of street demonstrations to protest alleged unfair election tactics by the Thieu-Ky government.

The United States has placed considerable hope in the election, both for its propaganda potential and as an important step toward establishing democracy here.

Publicly U. S. officials here still profess to be encouraged about the way things are going.

But privately about the best they will say is that "nothing is certain in Vietnam" but that they still believe there is hope for a "reasonably" fair election.

U. S. Pilot Ejects, Returns Safely

Shot Down by Missile

SAIGON (AP)—Lt. Cmdr. Demetrio Anthony Verich dodged two flaming SAM missiles and banked toward the North Vietnamese rail yard that was his target. A third missile thundered into his Crusader jet's exhaust and blew the tail off.

The plane flipped over Monday and dove for the ground 5,000 feet below at 400 miles an hour.

The stocky 35-year-old bachelor from Laona, Wis., popped his ejection seat and the chute opened when he was about 1,000 feet up. Ground fire zipped about him and he drifted toward the billowing fireball from his own crashed jet.

Verich had been shot down just a year ago on his first tour in Vietnam with the carrier Oriskany. That time he was picked up just off the coast with Red mortar shells dropping into the water all around him. This time the coast was 40 miles away and his luck seemed to have run out.

After a night hiding out on a North Vietnamese hillside, a helicopter lifted the pilot to safety Monday with Communist fire zipping around him while other pilots drove off three Communist MIG21s.

Verich told a news conference in Saigon today that he landed on a steep hillside covered with brush, tangled trees and vines that rose 30 feet overhead. A few hundred yards downhill he could hear firing and North Vietnamese calling to each other.

"I lay low and covered myself up with branches," he said.

He tried to move about midnight to a safer area — he could hear voices about 100 yards away. But the ground was so steep he feared he would fall in the darkness and perhaps break a leg. He covered himself up again after moving only 20 feet.

At dawn the American planes returned, first the jets, then the slower propeller-driven Skyraiders and finally a noisy helicopter.

The Red gunners opened up on the planes and the helicopter. Flying his first rescue mission, tall, lean helicopter pilot Neil Sparks, a Navy lieutenant from Tulsa, Okla., was well-versed to the area by a shell that blew into the cabin 18 inches from his feet. It wrecked some of his controls and his radio earphones.

While other U.S. fliers drove off three MIG21s, Sparks fanned back and forth over the mountainous area, unable to spot Verich. Finally he neared the downed pilot and Verich fired a rescue flare up through the brush.

The hill was so steep the helicopter's blades were brushing the trees on one side as it hovered over Verich about 100 feet below. A long cable was lowered to him.

Verich tried to grab the cable. The first time it slipped out of his hands and helicopter crewmen brought it up empty. The second time, said Verich, "I grabbed it and hung on for dear life."

While the 100 feet of cable was slowly pulled in, the helicopter hovered almost motionless. Bullets zipped by. The helicopter shuddered from another hit, but it wasn't serious.

When Verich finally clawed his way into the cabin, he grabbed a crewman and hugged him.

"I guess he thought I was going to kiss him," said the pilot.

Then, with machineguns spraying and jets flying cover, the helicopter "got the hell out of there."

It was Verich's second mission of this cruise with the Oriskany. He completed 75 on his previous tour. After two weeks leave in Australia, he will return to the carrier.

Redistricting Legislation Stalemated

WASHINGTON (AP)—Another attempt by House and Senate conferees to agree on a congressional redistricting bill appeared to be floundering today on an antigerrymandering provision.

The issue deadlocked the conference Tuesday after the senators and representatives tentatively had agreed to permit a population variance of 35 per cent between the largest and smallest districts in a state for the next five years.

Under the agreement the maximum permissible variation would be 10 per cent starting in 1972.

The question on which the conferees now are hung up is whether an antigerrymandering provision should be written into the law or whether the states should be free to decide if a district's lines are properly drawn.

Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House conferees, said a majority of them backed a strong provision in the law while the Senate conferees favored leaving it to the states.

HOMELESS VIETNAMESE ORPHANS are shown here with U. S. Army Sp6 Luis Munoz who appeals to Freeman readers to send clothing and shoes for the children. Munoz writes that, "I am one of many GI's who is helping the orphans in his spare time" and he adds, "We believe we can fight two wars here: one against Communism and (the other) against misery caused by the conflict . . ." Munoz states there are "153 children at the Van Tu Orphanage . . ." and he writes further that, "In view of the hot temperatures prevailing in Vietnam, summer . . . clothing is preferred." ## Reds Deny Aid To Arab Group

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Houari Boumedienne of Algeria and Abdel Rahman Aref of Iraq, the latest Arab pilgrims to Moscow, apparently have failed to win Soviet backing for new military action soon against Israel.

A communique issued in Moscow after Boumedienne and Aref flew back to Cairo Tuesday said they exchanged opinions with Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin on how to bring about an Israeli withdrawal from Arab land seized in the June war. The absence of any claim of agreement strongly suggested the Arabs and Soviets disagreed on how to do it.

The most militant Arab voices were represented by Boumedienne, who has not accepted the U.N. cease-fire and who has been urging Palestinian Arabs to wage guerrilla warfare against Israel. Aref is considered a moderate.

The letter, which followed an Israeli claim that it has the right to patrol the canal by boat, was considered an indication that the Soviets were abandoning their attempt to get a resolution demanding Israeli withdrawal through the emergency U.N. General Assembly.

Apparently the Soviets were end of the week.

Preparing to take their case back to the Security Council.

The assembly, which was called by the Soviet Union, has frustrated Russian hopes for a condemnation of Israel as the aggressor in the June war and a demand that Israel take its troops off Arab soil. The assembly reconvenes Thursday after a three-day recess and may wind up the special session before the end of the week.

U.S. Planes Bomb Rail, Missiles

By ROBERT TUCKMAN
SAIGON (AP) — American bombers flew more heavy raids Tuesday against North Vietnam, striking at four major rail yards north of Hanoi and blasting a missile site inside a soccer stadium midway between Hanoi and Haiphong.

Pilots claimed their rockets and 750-pound bombs blew up three of the Soviet-made surface-to-air missiles and their launchers in the Hai Duong soccer stadium.

"We really nailed them good," reported Lt. Cmdr. Gene Lund, 33, of Biloxi, Miss., one of the carrier pilots who attacked the stadium and reported orange fire and smoke billowing from the missile site.

Navy Air Force and Marine pilots flew 133 missions—about 400 individual strike sorties—over North Vietnam Tuesday and the raids cost one U.S. plane, the U.S. Command reported.

Jet Downed
An Air Force F4 Phantom jet was downed by ground fire and was the 612th U.S. combat plane reported lost over North Vietnam. The two fliers were rescued by helicopter.

Hanoi's official news agency claimed four American planes were shot down Tuesday.

The ground war in South Vietnam slackened once again and only small, scattered skirmishes were reported. The South Vietnamese prepared to observe "National Shame Day" Thursday, the 13th anniversary of the 1954 Geneva accords which divided North and South Vietnam.

North Vietnamese artillerymen fired 10 104mm rockets at a U.S. Marine amphibious tractor battalion 10 miles below the demilitated zone and wounded eight Marines. There was no word whether the rockets hit any of the amphibious tractors, which carry 105mm howitzers.

Report 42 Killed
Units of the U.S. Army's Task Force Oregon, made up of elements of the 101st Airborne Division, the 25th Infantry Division and the 196th Light Infantry Brigade, reported killing 42 Communist troops in several small contacts Tuesday in the northern part of the country.

In the strikes against the soccer stadium, Navy fliers returned after the first raid to a second attack late in the day to finish off the SAM site.

Other Navy bombers attacked an oil storage depot only 10 miles northwest of the center of Haiphong. Pilots reported their 1,000- and 2,000-pound bombs left smoke billowing up to 7,000 feet.

U.S. Air Force fighter-bombers flew in from bases in Thailand to range up and down the main rail lines running north-east and northwest of Hanoi to Communist China.

For the second straight day, F105 Thunderchiefs pounded the Kep railroad yard 38 miles northeast of Hanoi within a mile of the MIG airbase at Kep.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The heaviest bell in the world is the Tsar Kolokol (King of Bells) at the Kremlin in Moscow, Russia. Cast in 1733, the huge bell weighs 216 tons, stands 19 feet tall, measures 22 feet 8 inches in diameter and is 24 inches at its greatest thickness, says The World Almanac. Soon after it was cast, fire destroyed its supports and the fall broke a 12-ton piece from its side. The bell has never been rung.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rally continued in heavy trading early Wednesday. The ticker tape ran late.

Large blocks of stock were traded.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced nearly 3 points in the first half hour.

It was dampened by profit taking in some recent large gainers, among them General Electric which dropped more than 2 points.

Polaroid rose 3.

Gains of about a point were made by U.S. Gypsum, General Motors, Du Pont, International Nickel, Vornado, Control Data and U.S. Smelting.

Fractional gains were made by most of the cigarette stocks, steels and nonferrous metals.

W. R. Grace opened on a huge opening block, the fourth largest in number of shares but the second largest in dollar value, ranking under a Xerox block.

On 428,200 shares, W. R. Grace dipped 3 1/4 to 43. Valued at $18,412,600, it ranked under 100,000 shares of Xerox at 201, traded Aug. 8, 1966, worth $20.1 million.

It was topped on a number-of-shares basis by a million shares of Pacific Petroleum traded last May 18 and by 585,600 shares of Sperry Rand at 30 1/2, sold last May 4.

Opening blocks also included: Anderson Clayton, up 1/2 at 40 on 40,300 shares; American Telephone, up 1/2 at 52 1/2 on 40,300; Chrysler, up 1/2 at 46 1/2 on 10,000; Monsanto, up 1/2 at 45 1/2 on 8,700; General Motors, up 1/2 at 82 on 9,300; and Pan American World Airways, up 1/2 at 31 1/2 on 5,700.

Warn of Delay In Filing for SS Benefits

About one of every five applicants for social security disability benefits delays so long before making his application that he risks possible loss of some payments, George J. Habernig, district manager of social security in Kingston, said today.

In an effort to remedy this situation, the Social Security Administration is asking anyone who might possibly qualify for disability benefits to get in touch with a social security office as soon as possible.

"Some people fail to apply because they don't realize that they can benefit from the program," Habernig said. "Younger people often think that social security payments are only for people in their sixties, whereas the disability program was specifically set up to protect the wage earner who is forced to stop working before he is old enough to collect retirement benefits."

Who Qualifies
A person under 65 can receive monthly payments if he has a physical or mental impairment that has kept or will keep him from working for a year or more. Individual benefits range from $44 to $152 a month. If the worker has dependents, total family benefits can amount to as much as $339 monthly.

"Others don't file because they are under the impression that they have to be permanently disabled. This was generally true before a 1965 change in the law, but now payments can go to a person whose disability has lasted, or is expected to last, for 12 months or longer," Habernig pointed out.

Benefits begin after a person has been disabled for six full months. No benefits can be paid for months during this "waiting period." Also, the law limits the back benefits a person can collect to the 12 months before the month in which he applies.

This means that the latest a person can file without losing any back benefits is the month that comes after the 19th month of his disability. These 18 months cover the waiting period and the 12-month limit of retroactive benefits.

Some File Too Late
A recent social security survey shows that at least 19 percent of disability applicants file later than this, thus risking loss of benefits they might otherwise have received. An undetermined number of disabled persons do not file at all, and so miss out entirely.

Habernig cautioned, however, that benefits can be paid only if a person's disability is severe enough to prevent him from doing not only his usual job, but also any work in keeping with his age, education, and experience. And, to be eligible, a person must have worked under social security for at least five of the 10 years before he became disabled.

Benefits continue for as long as the disability lasts, or until the beneficiary reaches 65. At age 65, disability benefits are converted to retirement benefits, without any change in the amount.

Ryan Decorated

VIETNAM—The Combat Infantryman's Badge, mark of distinction for the fighting soldier, was awarded to Private First Class Kevin M. Ryan in Vietnam, June 14.

Pvt. Ryan, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Ryan, Broad St., West Hurley, is assigned to the Reconnaissance Platoon in Headquarters Company, 3rd Battalion in the 4th Infantry Division's 22nd Infantry as a machine gunner.

CIBs have been awarded since late in World War II for sustained contact against an enemy in ground action. The badge is a blue rectangle with a silver rifle mounted on it and a curved wreath at the top. Subsequent awards are represented by stars in the center of the wreath.

At least 30 days of contact with hostile forces in Vietnam are required to be eligible for the award.

Pvt. Ryan, a 1964 graduate of Ontario Central High School, Boiceville, entered the Army in July 1965 and completed his basic training at Ft. Dix, N. J. He was last stationed at Ft. Belvoir, Va., before arriving in Vietnam in April 1967.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING....

By ROGER E. SPEAR
Investment Advisor & Analyst
Reduce List to Manageable Size

Q) "I am a recent widow. I hold the enclosed list of stocks and have $200,000 to be invested. What are your suggestions?" A. H.

A) I offer my sincere sympathy on the loss of your husband, but I am pleased that you have been left in such comfortable circumstances. You have an excellent list which consists entirely of good quality issues, in my opinion. The only criticism of your portfolio is that it includes too many individual stocks. No one, I believe, can intelligently follow 22 separate situations. If I were you, I would eliminate my small holdings, not because of their quality but solely to reduce my list to more manageable proportion.

If you dispose of your seven holdings of less than 100 shares, you might well build up such issues as General Motors, American Can, Lone Star Gas, Pfizer, and Pacific Gas & Electric. I would definitely add to my holdings in First National Bank of Memphis which I consider a well-managed and growing institution. For a new investment of $200,000, I think you should consult a local bank or investment adviser. I would be inclined to include a number of fast growth situations, if you can accept lower income. But in doing so, I would eliminate some of your slower stocks to keep the total to 15 individual issues.

Q) "What effect will the merger with Kern County Land have on Tenneco shares?" I understand that they're going to issue a great deal more Tenneco common." S.B., D.P.

A) To effect the merger, Tenneco proposes to issue one share of $5.50 preference stock—convertible after July 1, 1969 into 3.6 shares of Tenneco common—for each share of Kern County Land. There is potential dilution but no actual issuance of new common stock. I believe that acquisition of Kern County Land will add to Tenneco's potential and I like the stock for income and moderate growth.

Study Convention Issues

Dutchess Liberals Meet

Dutchess County Liberal Party chairman Jay Koseff met with Joseph Marvella, Poughkeepsie chairman, to discuss the role of the party's three man delegation at the State Constitutional Convention.

It was pointed out that the delegation is working for a term of four years for senator and two years for assemblyman along with a redistricting bill taking reapportionment of of the hands of the legislature. As for the Blaine Amendment, Liberals at the convention favor retaining it but Rev. David Harrington requested that the entire amendment be removed from inclusion and be submitted to the voters as a separate issue in November. The Liberal delegation is seeking to make wiretapping a felony and for a non-partisan supervision of the election law.

Results Disappointing

Lottery Drawing Set

By GERRY MCLAUGHLIN
ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — State officials kept one eye on Lady Luck and another on the financial books today as they swept toward their first drawing in New York's "horsebow" lottery, with the recorded proceeds already $23.5 million below the estimated goal.

No one in official quarters had much good to say about the report Tuesday by Tax Commissioner Joseph Murphy that the state in June sold $6,447,606 worth of lottery tickets.

And no one at the top levels of government cared to speculate about the state's tax future, in view of the fact that lottery proceeds had been estimated at $30 million a month.

Disappointment figured generally in comments by Gov. Rockefeller and the big men in the Legislature.

Committed to Drawing
No matter what the sales, the state was committed to begin Thursday a three-stage process of selecting winners of the June lottery.

The total made public by Murphy means there will be about 1,500 tickets pulled from revolving drums for first-month prizes ranging from $150 to $100,000.

The winners will divide about $1,934,282.

At the same time, the nearly $6.5 million total sales in June will allow the selection of an additional 1,270 tickets that will be kept under lock and key and will be eligible for the yearly bonus super-prize of $250,000.

Under the formula, only six ticket-holders will grab off a big $100,000 prize for June.

What does the Murphy report of Tuesday mean in terms of the state's financial future and possible tax increases?

Too Early to Tell

Spokesmen for Rockefeller, in unofficial comments, declared that it was too early to tell whether tax increases would be needed. Emphatically, they contended that the evidence at hand was far from sufficient to make even an educated guess on that score.

Under the formula adopted by the Legislature after the voters approved the lottery in last November's election, 30 per cent of the money from each month's sales will be used for prizes, 15 per cent for administering the lottery and 55 per cent for aid to education.

Murphy reported that, under the formula, $3,546,183 of the June sales would go toward educational purposes. Of that amount, two-thirds, or $2,365,122 will be returned to local school districts and one-third, or $1,182,061, will go to the state for educational spending.

Rockefeller was in Cooperstown Tuesday, attending a broadcasters' meeting, when the tax commissioner told the state what it had been expecting to hear—that the first month's lottery sales were far below official expectations.

The Republican governor said he was "very disappointed" with the sales but expressed hope first month's sales would spark increases in future sales.

Rockefeller suggested that the Legislature could, after a trial period, make changes in the program.

Ready to Move

In Albany, Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges, who long has shared Rockefeller's loathing for use of a lottery to produce state revenues, pictured the Legislature as ready to step into a lottery disaster, should it occur.

"If the state lottery is not a natural success," Brydges asserted, "the 1968 Legislature should consider repealing the program and accept the challenge to finance education by more traditional and less flamboyant means."

Brydges, an expert on governmental education finance, portrayed himself as a reluctant partner when the politically split Legislature and the governor heeded the people's mandate earlier this year and put the lottery machinery into motion.

Lottery Molders

Rockefeller, Brydges and Travia were the principal figures in discussions this year that molded the existing lottery program into its present shape.

Travia agreed Tuesday with Rockefeller that the only way for the lottery appeared to be up. But, he added, "I said all along that all of these estimates on expected lottery sales were exaggerated."

As outlined by Murphy Tuesday, the June sales update were $2,075,087. In New York City, 4,372,518 of the $1 lottery tickets were sold.

City Bowling Hall of Famer Succumbs at 91

A well known Kingston bowler, John S. Raible, 91, of 71 East Chester Street, died Tuesday.

He had been elected to the Kingston Bowling Association's Hall of Fame June 3 when he was presented with a special award during the first Bowling Hall of Fame ceremonies.

"We're honoring John Raible not only because he is the oldest active bowler in KBA but also in recognition of his many outstanding contributions to the game," said association president William Einkenkel, at that time.

Mr. Raible came to Kingston in 1902 to accept employment as a laundryman and was a foreman with Fuller Shirt Company for 47 years prior to retirement in 1950.

Congress Pessimistic Over Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders with varying ideas of how the war should be fought are viewing the military situation in Vietnam with more than usual pessimism.

There are rising complaints the conflict has become almost wholly an American war. There is skepticism about Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's reports of substantial military progress.

There is general acceptance that more U.S. troops will be sent to Asia and that the administration will be back in January for a $4 billion to $6 billion increase in the military budget. Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., and Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., raised the "American war" issue. Byrd, who wants greater military efforts made to end the conflict, took McNamara to task for saying the United States had not requested its allies to supply more troops. Byrd, a Senate Armed Services Committee member, said it wasn't enough just to discuss these matters with other nations. He said troop requests should be laid on the line, lest the point be reached where Americans are doing all the fighting.

Laird, who heads the House Republican Conference, said in a statement that U.S. casualties are outrunning those of the South Vietnamese two to one. President Johnson told a news conference Tuesday that sometimes the Americans lost more men because of the places in which they are fighting. The situation fluctuates, he said.

He added he didn't think anything really is gained "by pointing out that this country or that country lost more yesterday than the one the day before." Rep. Clarence D. Long, D-Mo., said the South Vietnamese army must be revitalized as a part of the program of sending more U.S. troops. Long, a member of the House Appropriations subcommittee on military spending, added: "We cannot and should not take over unlimited defense of a land that is not making the greatest possible contribution to its own self-preservation."

Batavia GI Dies In Viet Attack

BATAVIA, N.Y. (AP) — A 19-year-old soldier is dead of wounds suffered during an enemy rocket attack in South Vietnam, his parents say.

Spec. 4 Stanley Tomaszewski was wounded while defending what Army officials termed a "perimeter position" his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Tomaszewski, said Tuesday.

The younger Tomaszewski entered the service in March, 1966 and arrived last September in Vietnam where he was assigned to the 25th Infantry Division.

He was graduated from Batavia High School in 1965. The Tomaszewskis live at 14 William St.

Dies of Injuries

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — James Schraufstetter, 18, of nearby Depew, died Tuesday in Millard Fillmore Hospital here of injuries suffered last April 15 in a bus-car collision that also took the life of his teen-aged companion.

Michael Buckenroth, 17, also of Depew, died in the same hospital the day of the collision in Depew.

Both teen-agers were in the car. Schraufstetter's address was 4718 Broadway, and Buckenroth lived at 39 Ridgeway St.

Guest Speaker To Preach at Dutch Church

Dr. Carl S. Winters, who is remembered here for his outstanding address at the Washington Day Dinner last February, will be guest preacher at the Old Dutch Church Sunday, July 30. He speaks from a rich background of human experiences as a radio minister for 24 years, as minister of one of America's greatest churches for 20 years; and as a former crime commissioner in Michigan and as skid-row chairman in Chicago. Dr. Winters will preach at both the Drive-In service held at 8:45 a. m., in Reades 9W Drive-In Theatre and at the regular service held at 11 a. m., in the sanctuary of the Old Dutch Church, Main Street. The public may attend.

County Grange News

Plattekill Notes

Many Plattekill members will join the County Class of candidates for the 5th Degree of the Grange to be conferred at the Stone Ridge Grange Saturday 8 p. m. with Ross Osterhoudt as master of ceremonies.

Rehearsals are being held locally for the Rose Drill to be presented in conjunction with the conferring of the 6th Degree at the municipal auditorium at Kingston, on Wednesday evening, August 2 by the New York State Grange Officers. Arrangements are in charge of deputies, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Everett.

The next regular meeting of the Grange will be held on Monday 8:30 p. m. At this time the cinnamon roll baking contest will be held on a local level directed by Mrs. Elmore Lozier, chairman of the local Service and Hospitality Committee. The winner will be eligible to compete in the county contest.

Ira Merwin has been appointed chairman of the ticket committee for the annual chicken barbecue to be held at the Grange July 29 with servings at 5 and 6:30 p. m.

The Junior Grange will meet at the Grange Hall Monday 12:30 p. m. for a business meeting, project instructional session and a picnic, led by the local Grange Matron, Mrs. John Lenio.

DO YOU REMEMBER

I received some items from a reader of Bearsville. She writes that she has been reading this column with interest, and as I told about the endless number of cars coming down to see the destruction of Broadway East by urban renewal. She writes, in part: "Well, last month I took a ride downtown, to say I was shocked is putting it mildly. I could hardly believe my eyes, such destruction. Why? I just felt like I lost a friend. The merchants were always friendly and took time out to speak to you. But all that is now gone forever," she concluded.

She enclosed the Kingston Argus of May 15, 1889. She said she found it in the first house they bought when they came up to Bearsville in 1924, and thought it would interest me. She also added, she did not think that the papers of today would stand the test of time like this one did of 1889. In those days, the paper had a high rag content and remained soft, while today's papers crumble into dust in 20 years, so it seems.

A professional man who some 20 years ago used to come up this way to spend several weeks in the summer, and remembered Roundout, its drug stores and physicians and good buildings, looked at the corner of Meadow Street and Broadway and where Stock and Cordts used to be, and the first thing he asked me was, "What happened?" I answered, "Urban renewal." He asked, "What's urban renewal?" He has lived all his life in New York City, and is a prominent physician, and had been in service in World War I and could not understand this urban renewal—a planned destruction of buildings and sidewalks on the main stem.

Strange that here we are in the midst of modernizing, progress and go-go-ahead with Kingston, and uptown. Then suddenly someone thinking of an old-fashioned idea like push-carts or stands of merchandise on the sidewalk, and everyone goes simply wild with happiness—the customers who flocked to rummage through the bargains and the merchants who happily rang their cash registers. So, the old-fashioned ideas aren't so bad after all. Perhaps it's like the old-fashioned big bottles of tonics, vegetable compounds, which perhaps often had an alcoholic content of some 15 per cent, but they helped. Today the medicines are most modern in pills and capsules, and help one ache while they are toxic for other parts of the body, and everything is called "the bug" or "the virus." At least in our day we had fancy names for our ills. Beef, iron and wine tonic were popular sellers in my father's store.

The Kingston Argus of May 15, 1889, is a large sheet with seven columns on the front page. They have many small items, and even baseball scores. They were concise writers. Violence was covered in one paragraph and was sent in from various states. Most murders seemed to be family affairs. They had short columns of Ulster County News on the front page.

One item from Highland reads: Edgar Elmendorf, the new postmaster, is the youngest man ever occupying the office here. On the back page is an illustrated advertisement on P. T. Barnum's Greatest Show on Earth coming to Newburgh, telling about the animals, and great free street parade with $1,500,000 in rare features to march at 9 in the morning.

First Income Tax

Although the U.S. personal income tax became law by congressional act in 1913, the first income tax was imposed in 1862 to meet Civil War expenditures. Congress allowed it to expire in 1872, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

WORLD ALMANAC
FACTS

The Post Office Department, which has over 505,000 employees, is the largest nonmilitary department of the federal government. Operating from more than 33,000 post offices throughout the United States and possessions, these employees handled over 71 billion pieces of mail in 1965, says The World Almanac. A fleet of some 52,800 vehicles is maintained to speed the delivery of the mail.

Denies Reasonable Doubt Motion

Mino Affirms Jett Decision

Ulster County Judge Raymond J. Mino has affirmed the decision of Elenville Police Justice Ronald Elias, which denied the coram nobis application of James Edward Marshall, alias Kendall I. Jett.

In view of the affirmation of Justice Elias's decision, Jett's application for a certificate of reasonable doubt pending appeal to the County Court is denied.

Sought New Life
Jett, who came from Rhode Island to start a new life in New York, worked a short time at the Brookside Hotel, Kerhonkson as a breakfast cook, then left and worked at the Central House, Kerhonkson at the time of his arrest on April 20, when he was accused of taking razor blades and cigarettes from the Eckstein store in Ellenville.

Arrested by police, Jett entered a plea of guilty to petit larceny and was sentenced to a year in jail. No appeal from the judgment of conviction was taken, instead on April 24 he filed a petition with Justice Elias seeking coram nobis relief.

The arrest of Jett took place about 1:45 a. m. on April 20. He was arraigned, pleaded guilty, was sentenced by 5 a. m. and taken to jail to begin the year sentence.

A hearing on the coram nobis application was granted and held on May 2, at which time the defendant was represented by counsel, Saul H. Altholz of Kerhonkson with Burt Neuborn of counsel appeared for Jett. The District attorney's office throughout the entire proceedings was represented by Assistant District Attorney Albert I. Lonstein.

Was Advised
The return of Justice Elias shows that Jett was informed of the charge, and before accepting a plea was advised of his rights. The charge was read to defendant and he said he understood the charge. His right to counsel was explained and he was advised he would be supplied with counsel free of charge if he had no funds. Jett said he did not desire counsel or an adjournment to secure counsel, or an adjournment to apply to a higher court for other relief. He said he did not seek time to secure bail.

At the coram nobis hearing Jett said he had come to Ulster County and changed his name "to put my past behind me." He said the charges had been read to him, he understood the nature of the crime and had been informed of his constitutional rights by the Justice. Jett also testified being asked if he wanted counsel and replied he did not.

Judge Mino's opinion states the testimony "fails to establish that the defendant was not adequately informed of his rights or that his right to counsel was not voluntary and informed."

"The defendant recalled both in his direct and cross examination at the hearing that the information was read to him; that he understood the nature of the crime and that he was not confused as to what the charge was. Defendant's plea of guilty was not to a crime other than he was charged with. The details of crime were specifically set forth in the allegations of the information," Judge Mino holds, "and the defendant's plea of guilty admitted the allegations of the information."

Denied Move
At the conclusion of the hearing Justice Elias denied the defendant's application seeking coram nobis relief. An appeal was filed May 26 and following the police justice's return being filed the appeal was argued before County Judge Mino on June 29.

Jett urged reversal of Justice Elias's decision on the grounds that the "telescoping of the entire criminal process of arrest, arraignment, conviction and sentence into a three hour period in the middle of the night" had violated his constitutional guarantee of due process of law; that defendant's waiver of his right to counsel at the time of arraignment and his entry of a plea of guilty was not informed and voluntary because of his mental and physical condition; that the police justice accepted the plea of guilty without conducting an independent, interrogation of defendant to determine whether or not he committed the acts upon which the plea was based.

Referring to the arraignment, plea and sentence in the "early morning hours," Judge Mino says "while this procedure might be frowned upon, standing alone and in itself, it is not violative of the defendant's constitutional guaranty of due process of law." He cites the daily practice of the Night Court Part of the New York Criminal Court.

Jett was accused of taking 18 packages of razor blades and 19 packages of cigarettes from the Eckstein store, valued at $11.

Prior to coming to Ulster County Jett was involved with the law in Boston and served a six months sentence. He is presently under probation from Virginia Beach, Va., where in June 1964 he was given a five year suspended sentence under a plea of guilty to a charge of burglary and grand larceny. A detainer for his return to Virginia as a probation violator has been issued and on completion of his jail sentence here he will be returned to Virginia to answer to the charge of probation violation.

The Jett case gained wide publicity when Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick called the action of Justice Elias "vigilante, frontier-style justice."

Bechtold, Liberals Coordinate Issues

C. John Bechtold, the Republican-Liberal candidate for Mayor of the City of Kingston, met with city Liberals recently for the purpose of coordinating activities in regard to campaign issues and to map strategy for the coming May-orally election.

Urban Renewal was the main topic for discussion and Bechtold was congratulated by the Liberals for his efforts in the fight to reopen Cornell Fire Station. Bechtold is a former member of the Kingston Board of Fire Commissioners and has served as president of that board.

He was a candidate for the Republican nomination for second Ward supervisor in 1965 and has been an active Republican Committeeman for the past 20 years.

Employed as a brakeman and conductor on the New York Central Railroad for the past 30 years, he is also an active volunteer fireman being a member of the A. H. Wicks Co. He is also a member of the Veterans Firemens Association, Ulster County Volunteer Firemen Association, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Masonic Lodge No. 10 F&AM, Junior Order of Mechanics and First Presbyterian Church.

Bechtold was educated in the Kingston Schools and has four children.

Must Raise $233,990 Locally

To Air College Budget on July 27

A public hearing on the Ulster County Community College budget for the fiscal period September 1, 1967 to August 31, 1968, called for 7:30 p. m. on Thursday, July 27, at the county office building, will give the public an opportunity to review and question the budget items.

Although the college is moving from its present one-building facility in Kingston to the new six-building complex at Stone Ridge, and from its present limited grounds to a campus of approximately 90 acres, the 1967-68 Ulster county share of operating costs is estimated at only $4,934 more than the cost to the county during the past year. The board of trustees has submitted a tentative budget to the Board of Supervisors. The request for $32,500 equipment and $201,490 for operating costs, a total of $233,990 to be raised locally represents the county's share of operating the college.

Since September, 1965, the official community college budget year is September, 1 through August 31 and the county was asked to raise 1/3 of the following fiscal year's budget during the calendar year. This has caused a great deal of confusion.

Therefore, the Board of Trustees of the college and the administration of community college have decided not to submit this request this year and operate during the first one-third of the college's fiscal year on tuition and advances from the state.

The anticipated enrollment for the academic year 1967-68 is 876 full-time students and 800 part time students, totaling 1,676. In order to maintain the same quality of education as in the past, the full-time faculty will be increased from 41 to 52 members. This increase will maintain the same student-faculty ratio which is 16.8 students to each faculty member.

In the request for funds for the coming college year, the trustees note that the increases in the budget are also reflected by new and expanding educational programs.

During the academic year 1967-68, funds are needed to plan a two-year degree program in nursing which will begin September, 1968. "In addition, the advent of new facilities makes it possible to enlarge upon offerings in electrical technology, mechanical technology, and executive secretarial curriculum. Three programs will be offered second year courses for the first time. There are recreation supervision, community service as-

Newark Is Site

Black Power Parley

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—From moderates through militants, the entire spectrum of Negro leadership will gather for a "black power" conference Thursday in a city still reeling from five days of racial violence.

Sponsors insist, however, that the conference, called to seek cures for some of the chronic ills of the Negro community, will help rather than hurt Newark, where more than half the population is nonwhite.

Dr. Nathan Wright, Newark pastor and conference chairman, said Tuesday the meeting will be "good for the people of Newark." To move it, he said, would be "inflammatory."

He said the selection of the site here had the support of "many business and ministerial groups," despite misgivings of police and Gov. Richard J. Hughes. Hughes said he could not think of a worse time or place for such a meeting than Newark after the riots which left 25 dead and much of the Negro district a shambles. He asked its leaders to consider moving or delaying it, but they declined.

It remained speculative whether former Rep. Adam Clayton Powell of New York would attend the conference at the Episcopal Diocesan House.

Dr. Wright said that he has heard nothing from Powell, in self-imposed exile at Bimini, since receiving word 12 days ago from a Powell aide that the Harlem politician would come to Newark. Powell was ousted by the House of Representatives at the start of the current session over handling of committee funds. He was re-elected at a special election but has not tried to take his seat.

Fifteen workshops will be coordinated by major civil rights leaders, but with lesser-known spokesmen permitted full participation.

The workshops will focus on "self-directed efforts" through which Negroes can gain self-esteem and economic stability. Educators, political leaders, labor leaders, antipoverty staff workers, students, and clergymen will take part in the four-day conference.

Utilities Oppose State's Power Role

By WILLIAM S. STEVENS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Top officials of the private utility companies in New York State lined up solidly today against any constitutional provision aimed at enlarging the state's role in electric-power production.

At a hearing held by the State Constitutional Convention's Committee on Economic Development, spokesmen for the seven private utilities held "there is no need whatever" for further expansion of public power in the state.

Further, the spokesmen said, in statements prepared for the hearing, the state's role in power development "should not be defined by constitutional provision, but should be freely determined at any time by legislation based on current considerations."

The utility spokesmen were among nearly a score of top-flight electric-production leaders on the committee's agenda.

Originally, today's hearing was thought to be the arena for reopening battle over public-versus-private power between U. S. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, the state's leading Democrat on the national scene, and Republican Gov. Rockefeller.

Kennedy, who has criticized Rockefeller's electric power plans, was to have testified. Delegate Harold L. Fisher, D-Brooklyn, said Tuesday, however, Kennedy would appear instead at a hearing scheduled for July 26.

At the last session of the Legislature, Rockefeller proposed a plan whereby, he said, the state could double its electric-production power in ten years with private utilities and the state joining in a massive expansion program.

Democrats criticized the governor's plan on the ground it excluded the State Power Authority from participating in the development of nuclear-powered electric generating plants.

Kennedy charged that the plan would deprive the state of a needed check on private utilities.

The bill proposed by Rockefeller gained approval in the Republican ruled Senate but was killed in the Democratic dominated Assembly.

In a telegram to the committee today, U.S. Sen. Jacob K. Javits urged the Convention to take a flexible approach to the question of private-versus-public power.

The Republican senator said it would be "unwise to restrict either public or private development when the most efficient and least costly method is still to be learned."

He noted that the State Power Authority served as a source whereby the Public Service Commission could determine the proper rates to be charged by private utilities.

Javits urged the convention to allow private utilities to develop as far as possible and at the same time "ensure a significant role for public power."

Upstate Man Killed, Two Hurt in Mishap

ANDES, N.Y. (AP) — A 22-year-old man was killed and two of his companions were injured Tuesday, when the automobile in which they were riding overturned along Route 28 near this western Catskill village.

Steven Hoffman of Paramus, N.J., was killed. Thomas Laschitz, 19, of Pelham, N.Y., was reported in critical condition at Basset Hospital in Cooperstown, where Steven Goldsmith, 20, of Brooklyn, was reported in good condition.

Sable Hatted Porter

NEW YORK (AP) — "They give me a chair with my name on it," said Barbara Streisand. "So when do I get to use it?"

That wry appraisal of her first film making experience came Tuesday as the singer-actress paused between takes to catch her breath.

"When friends ask me what I did in the movie of 'Funny Girl,' I'll tell them I was a porter — the only porter in history to wear a sable hat," she said.

Then she picked up a suitcase in one hand, a makeup case and a bunch of yellow roses in the other and sprinted down an East River pier at the director's command.

"This is the hardest work I've ever known," she said later. "I had to be up at 6 in the morning. I'm not used to that. Normally I don't get up until 1. I'm used to theater hours."

Named Best Actress

CHICAGO (AP) — The Sarah Siddons Society has named comedienne Eve Arden as the best actress of Chicago's 1966-67 theater season.

The society, a group of critics, theater goers and society leaders, selected Miss Arden from a field of 66 actresses for her work in the title role of "Hello, Dolly!"

Announcement of the award was made Tuesday. A statue of Mrs. Siddons, an 18th century British actress, will be presented to Miss Arden next winter.

Sorry About That

DERWENT, England (AP) — Princess Alexandra yanked a bit too hard when she unveiled a plaque, and the ornamental gold tassel came away in her hand.

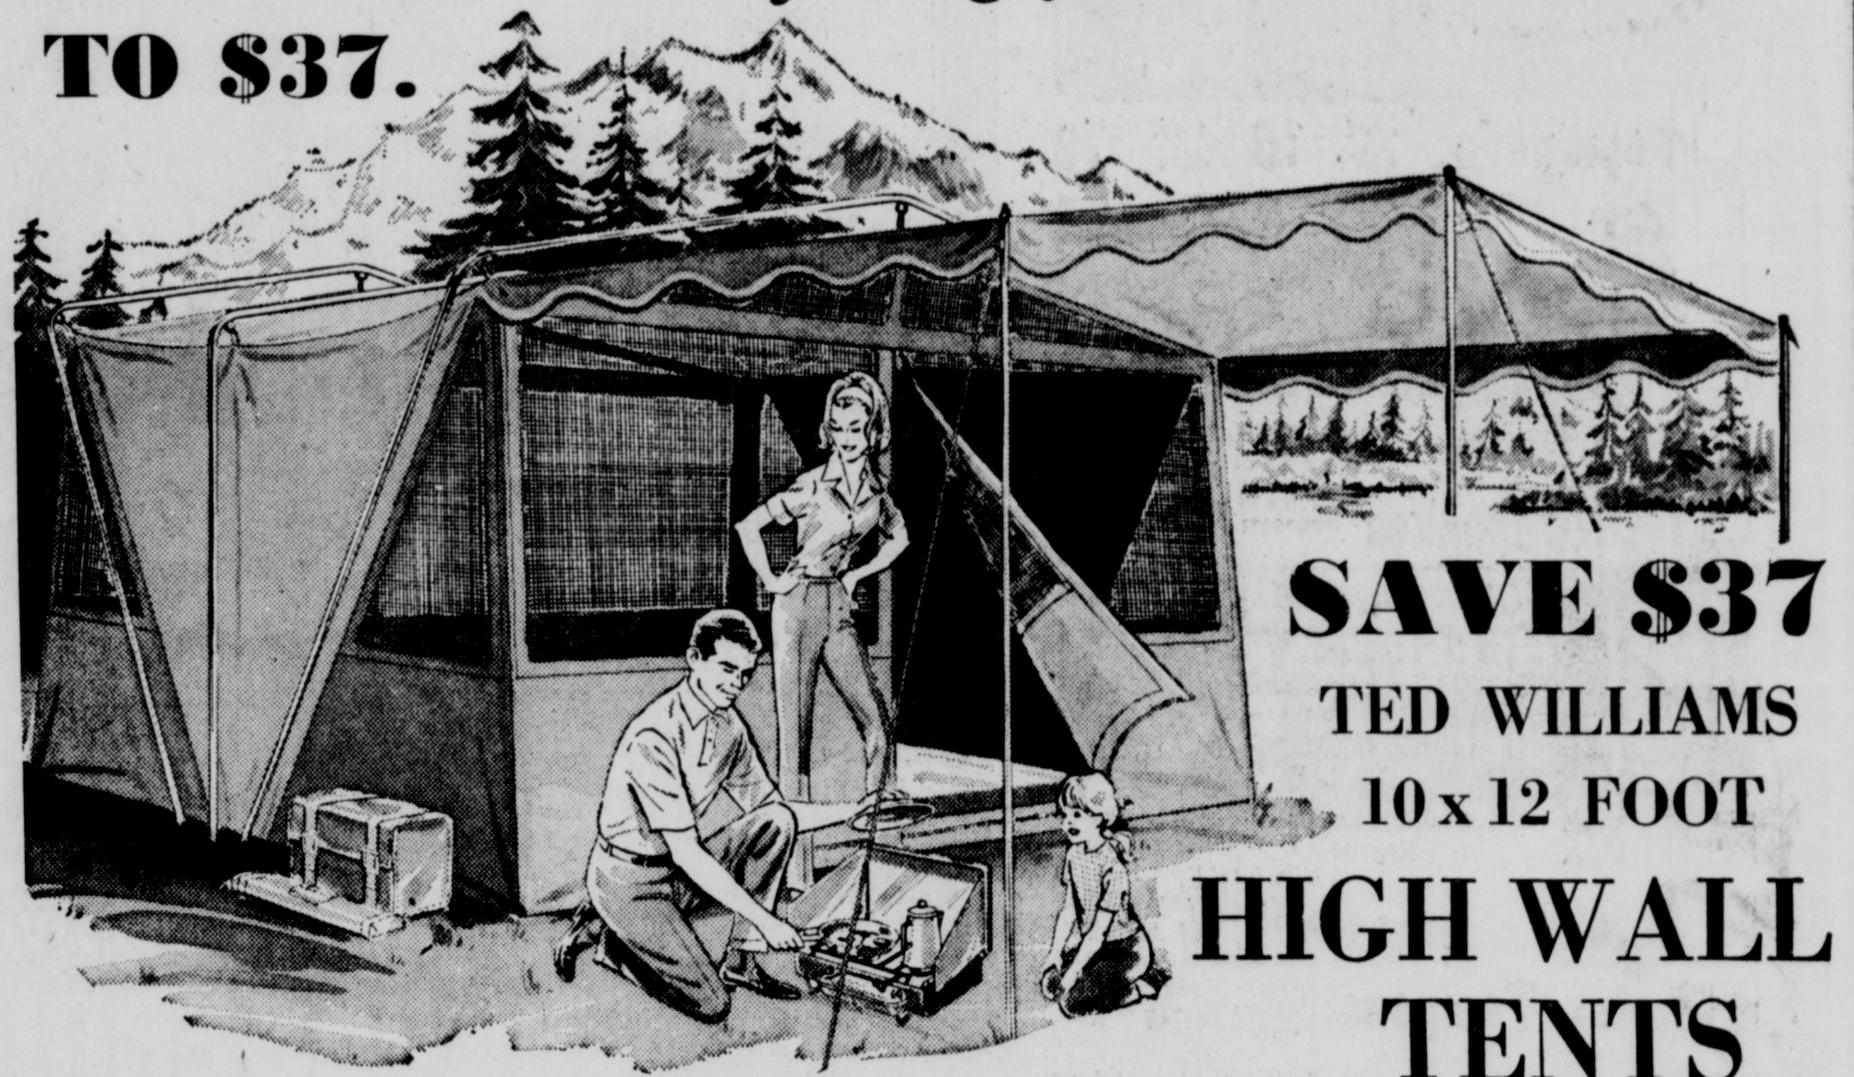

"Oops, sorry," said the cousin of Queen Elizabeth II before bursting into laughter.

Official Frank Rennoldson hurriedly whipped the cover from the plaque and the city's new reservoir was duly declared open.

"The princess asked if she could keep the tassel," he said Tuesday.

New Computer Aids Hospitals Under Medicare

National Cash Register Company, Poughkeepsie, has announced a "CARES" program for its 315 series of computers which will enable hospitals and other medical institutions to choose the best cost-finding and reimbursement method for federal Medicare reimbursement.

CARES is a packaged program available to area medical institutions through the NCR data processing center. It is believed to be the first program of its kind to be developed in the computer industry.

Medicare reimbursements are based on the cost of services rendered. The NCR program provides for allocation of non-revenue departments against revenue departments in order to reflect reasonable costs in the revenue-producing departments. The differing reimbursable amounts are then calculated by the program according to the methods available.

Depending on the method selected for allocation, NCR said, its tests showed typical differences of several thousand dollars on the same basic figures. The selection of the wrong method could thus result in a substantial continuing loss.

Accounting firms have estimated that arriving at the final figures by manual methods would take about three weeks.

The cost would be thousands of dollars more than if a computer program were used, NCR said.

CARES program service will be available at NCR data centers for a flat fee per processing, NCR said, with no limit to the number of processings per year. The final figures for all methods are returned to the hospital within five days after receipt of the input form.

"The number of institutions that can benefit from CARES Program is tremendous," said Charles J. Breny, manager of NCR's branch office in this area. Breny estimated that there are some 12,000 hospitals, extended care facilities, and nursing which could utilize the program on a quarterly basis.

Diskay Discount Notes Increased Sales Over 1966

Leo F. Alpert, manager of the Diskay Discount W. T. Grant Store at 307 Wall Street Uptown Kingston, today announced company sales for the month ended June 30, 1967 of $79,781,456, up $6,298,061 or 8.5 percent over June 1966 sales of $73,483,395. Calendar year to date sales of $386,964,147 are up $15,165,877 or 4.08 percent over sales of $371,798,270 for the like period last year. This is likewise a sales record for the company.

Louis C. Lustenberger, Grant president, credited the favorable seasonal weather for the sales improvement.

At June 30th, W. T. Grant operated 1,099 stores compared with 1,097 a year earlier. A major new unit is scheduled for July opening in Birmingham, Alabama.

Attorney Named to Board At Rondout National Bank

The Board of Directors of Rondout National Bank, 635 Broadway, has appointed John L. Larkin, Kingston attorney, as a director of the bank. Larkin will succeed James L. Quinn who had recently resigned and moved his residence and business to Florida. Larkin's father, the late Dr.

John F. Larkin, was a director of the bank from 1927 until his death in 1960.

Larkin is a native of Kingston, educated in Kingston schools and a graduate of Holy Cross College in 1943. He served in World War II as a lieutenant in the U. S. Navy. Larkin graduated from Albany Law School and was admitted to the New York State Bar in 1950. He has been practicing law in Kingston since that time and is a partner in the law firm of Larkin and Vogt.

Larkin, a former president of the Ulster County Bar Association, is a former assistant district attorney of the county, and has been general counsel to the bank since 1954. He resides with his wife, Muriel, and two children, at 224 N. Manor Avenue.

It was reported at the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the bank that the assets of the organization had increased 19 percent over June, 1966 reaching an all time high of $16,782,000.

A semi-annual dividend was declared of 75 cents per share payable July 25. This marks an increase over the dividend declared last year.

Rondout National Bank operates branches in Woodstock and Port Jervis.

New Rosendale Hairstylist

A little bit of Spain came to Rosendale this week with the opening of Jo-dee Hairstylists at Rosendale Shopping Center.

A complete line of wigs and hairpieces will be available through a special arrangement with Joseph's of Saugerties.

The new shop will be open evenings for customer convenience including Tuesday 9 to 5:30 p. m.; Wednesday 9 to 5:30 p. m.; Thursday 9 to 9 p. m.; Friday 9 to 8 p. m. and Saturday 9 to 5:30 p. m.

Customers may call for appointments, or stop in and enjoy the relaxing atmosphere of the Spanish decor. The new establishment is under the management of Mrs. Dolores Ratter, formerly of Joseph's of Saugerties. The rooms are air conditioned.

Local Technician At Detroit Parley

William A. Paetow, piano technician, attended the 10th annual convention of the Piano Technicians Guild held recently at the Statler Hilton Hotel, Detroit. Paetow was among some seven hundred piano tuner-technicians gathered from throughout the world to attend the four-day international convention.

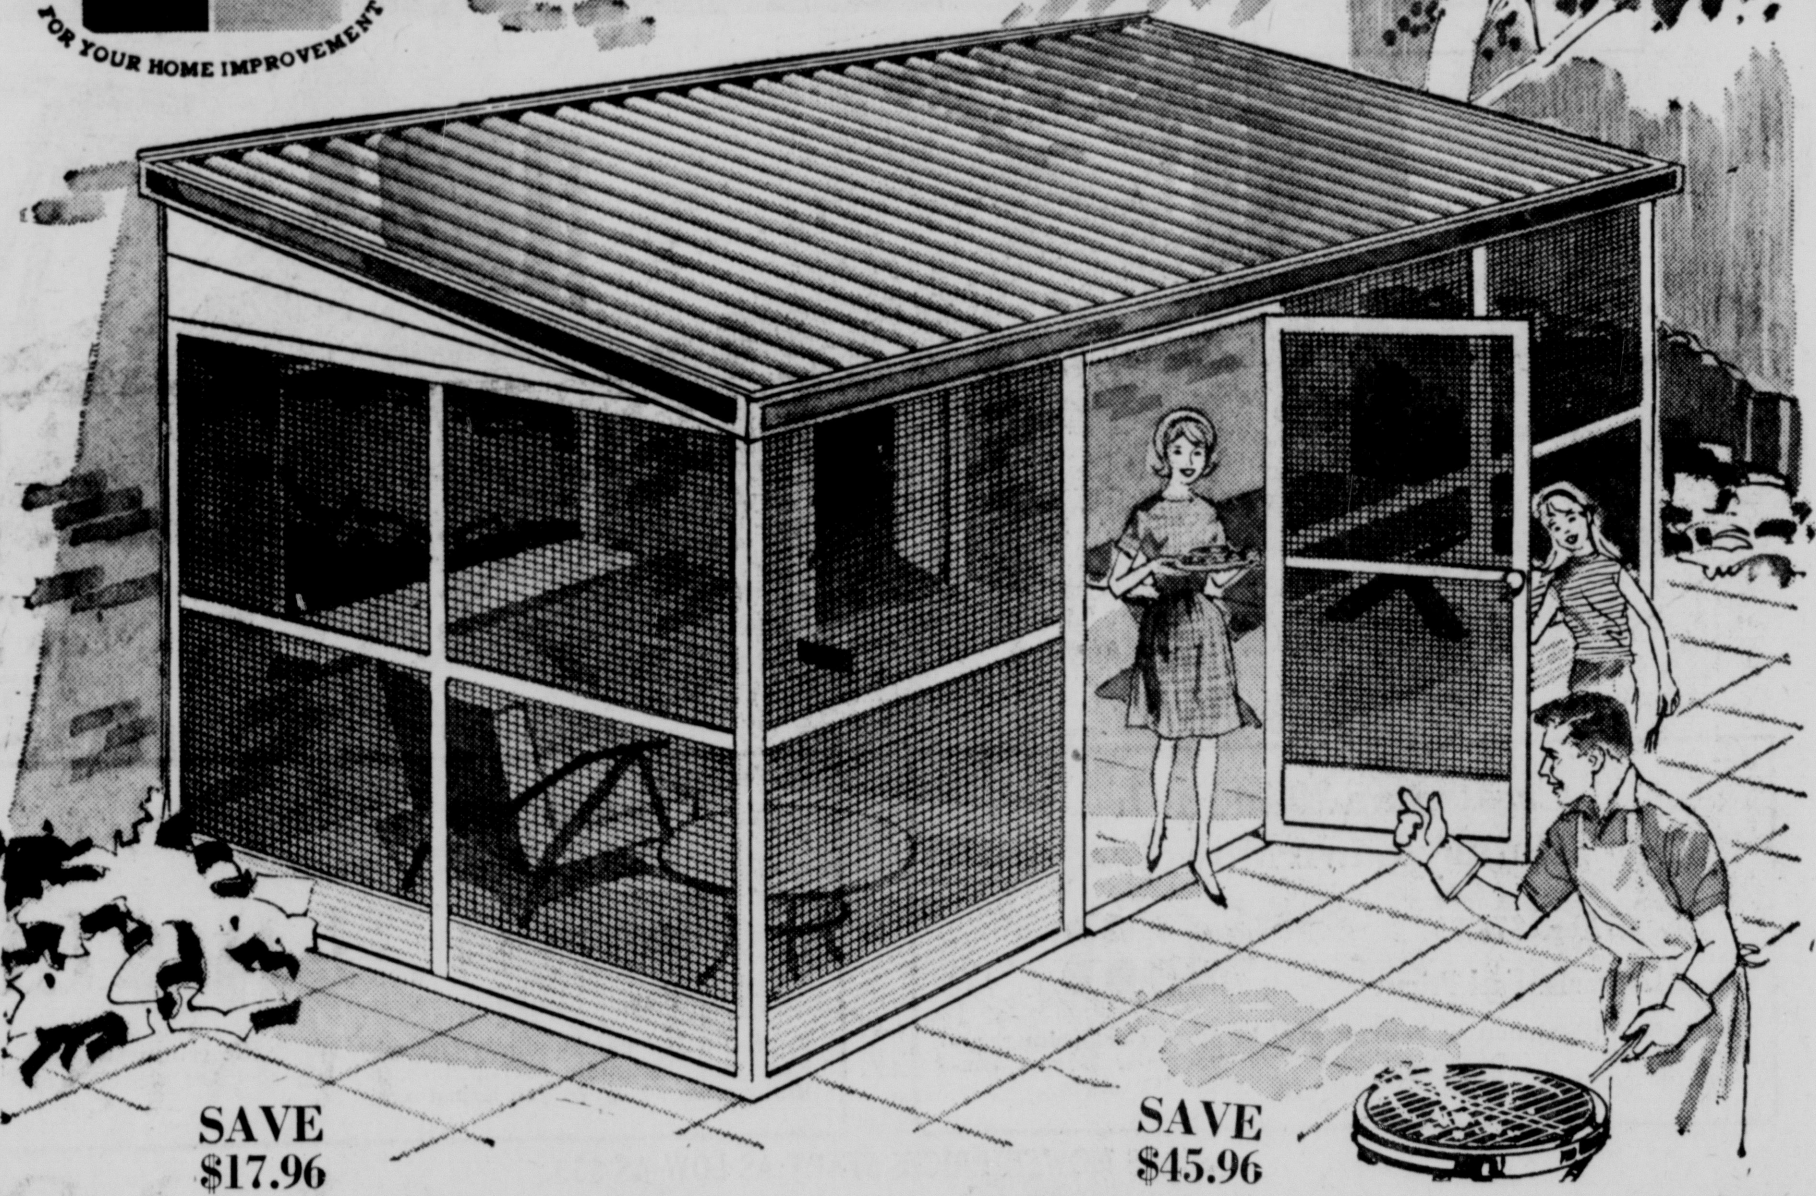

The Guild is a world-wide organization of registered craftsmen whose purpose is to provide better piano service by keeping informed of the latest engineering developments in manufacture, and by sharpening their tuning and repair skills. The Detroit convention includes a technical institute, and this year's convention theme is "Service Sells Pianos".

Scout Camp Records Broken In Second Week

The second week of the 1967 camping season came to a close Sunday at Camp Tri-Mount BSA, after a week of outdoor living, hiking and training for a capacity of 188 Scouts plus their leaders, Camp Tri-Mount, owned and operated by the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, is a 525 acre tract of woodland in East Jewett.

Several records were set during the week. Accompanying the eight troops in camp were 15 adult leaders, the largest group of "home troop leadership" ever in attendance in any one week. The attendance of parents and friends at the Saturday night awards campfire was the largest ever seen.

Troops camping in the six central camp-sites were: Troop 9 of Kingston, under the leadership of Scoutmaster William Daum, assisted by William Moser, Richard Burns and Robert Burhans; Troop 10 of Kingston, with Assistant Scoutmaster Charles Fowler; Troop 20 of Hurley, with Scoutmaster Robert Lawton assisted by Charles Bouton and Richard Rioux; Troop 28 of Ellenville, under Scoutmaster Vince Dumond; Troop 32 of Saugerties, with Scoutmaster Charles Hudson; Troop 171 of Clintondale with Assistant Scoutmaster Roger Rosencrans, and Troop 309 of Huntington, Long Island, under the leadership of Scoutmaster Lawrence Pfeiffer, assisted by Howard Amshel and Joseph Tyrdik.

Additionally, camping "on their own" in the old Iroquois campsite, were 17 Scouts of Troop 77 in New Paltz, under the leadership of Assistant Scoutmaster Leroy Carlson. This was the third straight summer of "self-reliant" camping for Troop 77. The Troop uses its own tentage, buys and cooks all its own food, and provides its own program, utilizing camp facilities such as the waterfront and other equipment which they cannot provide for themselves.

Many merit badges were earned by Scout Campers during the week, and recognized at the Saturday night campfire. In addition Patrols throughout camp were competing during the week for the Honor Patrol award, based on such things as advancement, patrol spirit and teamwork, special projects, and others. The honor patrol for the second week was the Eagle Patrol of Troop 9 Ted Blankshan, patrol leader; Randy Wells, assistant patrol leader; and John Fodor, Alex Nunes, Robert Hunger, Leslie Herring and Thomas Mayer.

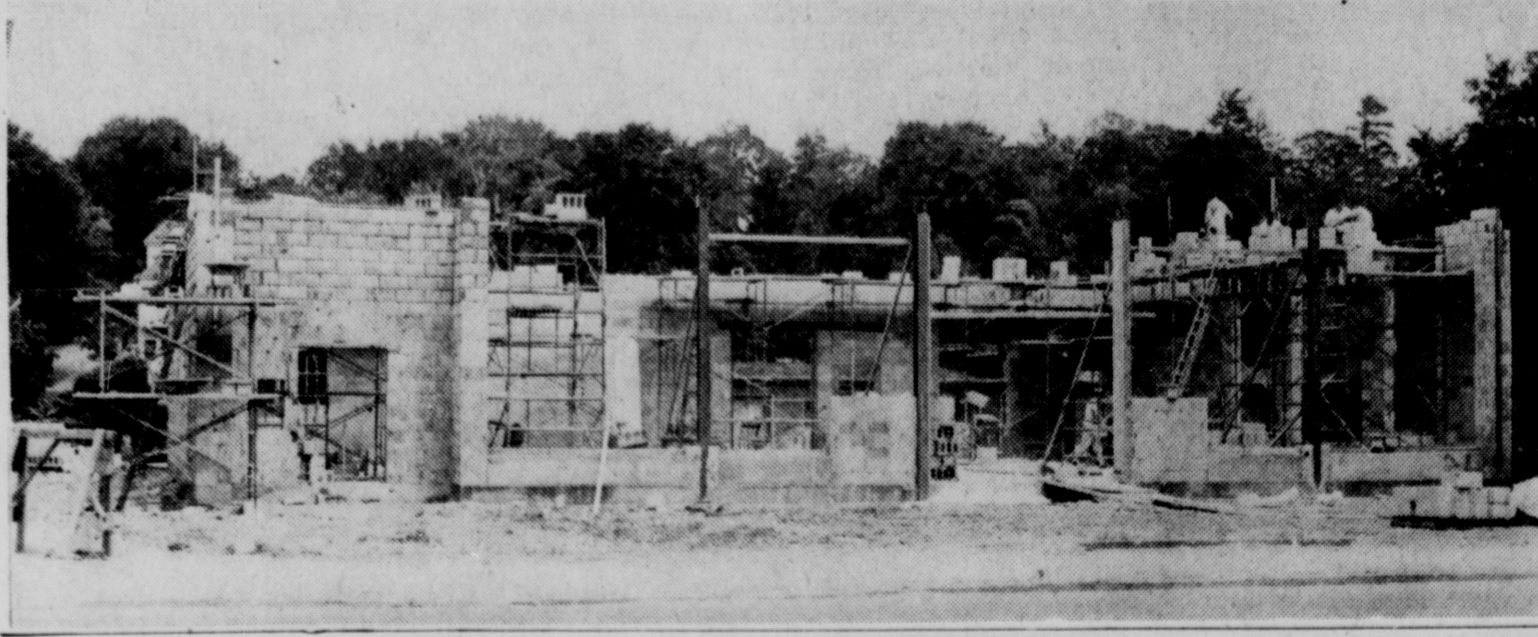

The Saturday afternoon Aquanaut event was won by the Cayuga Campsite, combining Troops 10 and 28. The plaque was presented by these two troops for posting in camp. After the second week campers departed Sunday they were replaced by 140 new Scouts, looking forward to the third week of the season.

Pike's Peak Mishap Kills Vacationers

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—A bus carrying 33 elderly Maryland residents on a cross-country tour careened off the twisting highway on the slopes of 14,110-foot Pikes Peak Tuesday.

Mrs. Lester L. Banks, 65, and Miss Elizabeth Gangler, 63, both of Baltimore, died at the scene. The other 31 passengers and driver Merl Woods, 36, of Denver, were taken to Colorado Springs hospitals.

Woods and seven others were reported in serious condition. Six of the passengers were released Tuesday night shortly after examination and treatment.

The group, in the 26th day of a 30-day trip, left Denver early Tuesday for visits to Colorado scenic attractions. They were to start back to Maryland today.

Police Sgt. Frank Camp said witnesses reported the bus rolled onto a soft shoulder at the right side of the road and tumbled over the embankment, which slopes at about a 45-degree angle. The bus rolled over once coming to a stop on its wheels against pine trees.

Scores of tourists quickly formed a human chain to carry most of the passengers from the wrecked bus to the roadway.

Kids Field Day Scheduled by South Side Men

The South Side Men's Club will hold its seventh annual Field Day for children on Sunday, at the Christy W. Huberts South Side Playground.

Area children of all ages may attend and participate in any of the large number of events scheduled to start at 1 p. m. There will be awards in five age groups ranging from five years old and younger to 15 years and over.

Following these events there will be a softball game between Boo's Tavern team and the Men's Club. Game time is approximately 3 p. m.

Refreshments including hot dogs, watermelon, salads and soda will be served to all children throughout the day. All children and parents may attend this event which has increased in popularity throughout the past seven years.

Field Day Chairman Robert Reynolds expects that this year's turnout will hit a new high with over 300 persons estimated to attend the festivities. Other members of the committee are Robert Moser, Donald Martin, Mickey McCormick, Ted Freiligh, Greg Mulstey, Jack Legg, Roger Winchell, Ed Mahoney and Robert Dixon.

Katsbaan Group Slates Antique Show and Fair

The Katsbaan Ladies Aid will hold its annual church fair and antique show Wednesday, July 26 on the Reformed Church grounds.

Area antique dealers will be present to display and sell items starting 2 p. m. Other features of the fair will be fancy articles both, food table, apron table and novelties.

A Virginia baked ham supper will be served 5, 6 and 7 p. m. Reservations may be made by contacting Mrs. William Fiero or Mrs. Fred Elveit.

The Blue Mountain Reformed Church annual fair and supper will be held Aug. 2 with servings at 5, 6 and 7 p. m. Mrs. Floyd Myer is in charge of reservations.

Service Center Activities Set

The Senior Citizens Club of Saugerties will meet at the Dutch Reformed Church at 1:30 p. m. Thursday when volunteers from the League of Women Voters will pick up the members and any interested friends to take them to Kingston for Permanent Voter Registration.

Those who have already registered will remain at the church for recreation until others return for a business meeting and refreshments. Plans for a picnic will be made at this time. Members may call the Neighborhood Service Center, if transportation is needed.

Food surplus will be distributed at the Neighborhood Service Center, 81 Partition Street on Friday between the hours of 12 noon and 2 p. m. Recipients must pick it up then.

Recruitment for the Neighborhood Youth Corps continues. Openings are still available for young men and women from low income families between the ages of 16 and 21. Neighborhood Youth Corps will work 30 hours per week for $1.50 per hour. High school dropouts should look into the opportunities the Job Corps has to offer for training in many different fields.

Mrs. Catherine Messersmith will be in charge of the Center while Mrs. Yvonne Ostrander is on vacation.

Atonement Church Speaker Is Named

Guest speaker at Atonement Lutheran Church, 100 Market Street, July 23 and 30 will be the Rev. Hugh Whitaker, pastor of Christ Lutheran Church, Little Falls, a former Atonement parishioner. He will reside in the community during the two week period and will be available for emergency needs.

Todd Kenneth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Caskey and Michael David, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Uhler, received the sacrament of infant baptism at the Sunday worship services last week.

DIXON, Ill. (AP) — Unless a Leonidas, Mich., truck driver changes his mind about paying a fine of $1,584, he may spend 10½ months in the Lee County Jail.

Almon B. Foster was fined Tuesday by Magistrate Morey Pires for having a load 15,840 pounds overweight. An overweight fine generally is set at 10 cents a pound.

Foster told Pires he would rather spend the time in jail than pay the fine.

Business Mirror Reflections

View Chaos of Rail Strike As Example of Efficiency

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Although this week's rail strike threatened national chaos for more than a day, it also provided a remarkable example of efficiency.

In just a few hours nearly 212,000 miles of track, 1.8 million freight cars and 21,327 passenger cars distributed over more than three million square miles were idled and then reactivated.

It could be said that chaos never was threatened with more efficiency. That utter chaos was not produced may have been the result only of the strike's brief duration. But maybe not.

Although few of those damaged by the strike are in the mood to hand out plaudits, some responsible behavior on the part of management, labor and government officials played a part. There were few major incidents. There were few accidents. And there were far fewer instances of passengers stranded and perishables left to rot than one would expect.

The first concern of railroads when a shutdown is expected is to make plans for handling the perishables: the passengers, the fruits and vegetables, the livestock.

Commuter lines try to announce their plans as soon as possible so that city officials, bus lines and individuals can make other plans.

Long-distance passenger lines must make sure their guests aren't stranded between cities where proper connections are impossible. The first decision, then, is to decide whether to permit a train to make its run.

Once the train leaves the terminal, rail officials say, they know the crew will take it to the immediate destination.

The first concern of freight lines in the event of a strike is to embargo the movement of perishables onto their lines, for once the goods are there the railroad is responsible for them. In a general strike, however, embargoes or Interstate Commerce Commission reroutings are ineffective. Rail officials then must try to get their perishables moved to a terminal in time to be protected.

Most perishables move in cars refrigerated either by ice or by mechanical coolers, but not all terminals have facilities for handling these cars.

Sometimes supervisory officials must man the locomotives and move the cars to other terminals.

These icing facilities might be owned by the railroad or by private ice companies. This, too, can produce complications, for the local ice company personnel might refuse to cross picket lines.

Livestock shipments present less of a problem these days because most meat moves dressed rather than on the hoof.

In reversing the procedure, in getting a railroad back in operation, new problems are met. Although nonperishable cars remain where they stop, locomotives may be hundreds of miles away, having been used to take perishables to icing terminals.

Crews, too, may have dispersed in the expectation of a long strike.

Banker Named To Caldor Inc., Sales Increased

THOMAS F. RICHARDSON

President and chief executive officer of The Fairfield County Trust Company, Thomas F. Richardson, has been elected to the Board of Directors of Caldor Inc., the discount department store chain, it was announced today by Carl Bennett, president and chairman of the Board. Caldor has a store on Route 9W, Town of Ulster.

Bennett also announced at the board meeting a 22 per cent increase in sales to a new record high for June and the five months.

Sales for the five months ended June 30 were $23,567,516 for the same period last year. Sales for June totaled $8,885,177 compared to sales of $7,274,523 for that month last year.

Richardson joined Fairfield County Trust in 1947, was elected president and a director in 1963 and chief executive director of the bank this year.

A nationally recognized authority in the banking field, Richardson is a member of the nominating committee of the American Bankers Association, the executive and legislative committees of the Connecticut Bankers Association, the American Finance Association and the New York Society of Security Analysts. He formerly served as chairman of the American Bankers Association's nominating committee.

Railroads Roll; Mediators Picked

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's railroads picked up momentum today as they rolled back toward normal operations. But some lines said full service was still a day or so away.

In the isolated instances where pickets still refused to bow to the congressional back-to-work order, the railroads were seeking relief in the courts.

By Tuesday night picketing had apparently stopped in California, but protest rallies were being planned by some machinists.

Sigmund Arywitz, head of the Los Angeles County Labor Federation, said: "By its action, Congress has substantially diminished our freedoms in this country."

In Cleveland the New York Central waited to see how many men on the morning shift reported after it obtained a restraining order from U.S. District Judge Ben C. Green to get 1,200 employees at its Collinwood yards back to work.

The Louisville & Nashville reported its trains running again in Kentucky but said it would take a day or two to get back into full operations.

The Southern Railway secured a temporary injunction against the unions in U.S. District Court in Chattanooga Tuesday, claiming irreparable damage to the company and the public.

The Southern claimed the strike was causing damages of $75,000 a day to Southern alone and asked that the unions be required to make it up.

President Johnson Tuesday appointed a five-man panel headed by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., to mediate the wage dispute that resulted in the first nationwide rail strike in 20 years.

Others on the panel will be Fred Kappel, retired president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.; Theodore Kheel, New York labor mediator; Leverett Saltonstall, former Republican senator from Massachusetts and George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO.

The back-to-work legislation signed Monday by Johnson calls for a government-written settlement if the six shopcraft unions and management are unable to reach agreement in 90 days.

The workers, who now average from $2.94 to $3.06 per hour, were seeking increases of 6.5 per cent this year and 5 per cent next year, plus 12.5 cents per hour each year for higher skilled men.

The railroads reportedly offered a 6 per cent wage hike over 18 months plus one five-cent raise for skilled workers.

AID Mission Ends — TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The U.S. Agency for International Development, after pumping $886 million into Iran in more than 17 years, is getting ready to pull up stakes.

AID Director Edward F. Tennant told a group of American businessmen Tuesday that the AID mission would close within six months. He said development of Iranian human and natural resources have made an AID-type program no longer essential.

"Iran has moved forward dramatically and is now in a stable period of good economic growth, modernization and rapid change," he said. "We are pleased that we have helped contribute to that change and the progress in Iran today."

Approve FM Station — WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission has approved an application from the Maurer Broadcasting Corp. to operate an FM radio station in Rome, N.Y., at 95.9 megacycles.

In other action Tuesday, the commission approved an application filed by the Berwick Broadcasting Corp. of Berwick, Pa., to operate an FM radio station at 103.1 megacycles in that city.

Former Model Pursues Flying Career

Tells Thrilling Flight Experiences

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.

Sighting wreckage of ill-fated aircraft, flying through the major blackout of November, 1965 and landing amidst lanes of flares and automobile headlights, piloting charter planes long distances, competing in an international race. Those are some of the achievements and thrilling experiences of Gale Brownlee, flight instructor and charter pilot at the Kingston-Ulster Airport off Flatbush Road, Town of Ulster.

First Woman Pilot

Mrs. Brownlee, pilot and native of Woodstock, holds a commercial license and was the first woman pilot to obtain a private license at the local airport. A member of the Civil Air Patrol, the 99's and Sky Rovers of Kingston, she received her flight training from the Carroll Air Co. at the port on Flatbush Road.

A Kingston Freeman reporter, a veteran aircraft passenger who flew over this area recently, will vouch for the skill and carefulness displayed by Mrs. Brownlee as she piloted the two-seater Cessna 150 on the flight.

Mrs. Brownlee started flying in September, 1963 at Carroll

Air Service, Kingston-Ulster them my arrival time, "Mrs. Airport. She received her pri-Brownlee said, "There was no vate license the next spring, answer, but that wasn't un-obtain a commercial license usual as I was still nearly 100 by September, 1964 and had a miles away. I flew on listening multi-engine rating a short time later. She began full-time a pilot calling a local airport flying in March, 1966, at Con-necticut Aviation Service, Dan-bury, Conn. She commuted each day in her own Cessna Skyhawk, fondly dubbed "The Gale Warning."

The simple 30-minute flight to Danbury daily now and then became a dreary two-hour drive when weather turned sour. In June, 1966 the popular flight instructor accepted a job at the old alma mater at the local air-port, and still is employed there.

"Probably one of the most in-teresting trips I ever had was that night in November, 1965 during the major blackout," Mrs. Brownlee told a reporter. "I was returning from Warren, Pa. There was no services available in Warren so I topped my tanks at Bradford McKeon, Pa., and started over mountains on what should have been a beautiful routine flight."

Full Moonlight

Mrs. Brownlee said that from under a thin cloud deck and light snow she emerged into a beautiful full moon night. "For-tunately, somewhere around Wilkes Barre I started calling Kingston on the radio to give

Mrs. Brownlee contacted Poughkeepsie and had them call Kingston on the phone—which was fortunately still in ser-vice—and requested flares to be set on the runway, and to ar-range cars at strategic points on the runway." An uneven-ful landing followed," she said. "All over the Eastern seaboard other pilots were landing in like manner. Larger aircraft with longer range were diverted to still lighted airports and safe landings, but what a different story it might have been if it had not been for the moonlit night."

Mrs. Brownlee with another Woodstock pilot, William P. Moncure were responsible for sighting and identifying the ill-fated Canadian aircraft with a family of three that crashed on Doubletop Mountain 15 miles from Margaretville last month. Victims of that crash were the pilot M. Guy Boisvert, 41, his wife, Lisa, 25, and their 6-month old daughter, Guyaine.

"Bill Moncure who was in the search party originally sighted what appeared to be new wreckage on the moun-tain side," Mrs. Brownlee said. "He returned to the airport and reported to CAP officials, who requested that I return to the site with Moncure. Between the two of us we became rela-tively certain of identification of the Canadian Bonanza."

At the time of discovery of the Canadian aircraft, Mrs. Brownlee and Moncure were taking part in search for the missing plane piloted by U.S. Air Force Captain Stephen Orenstein, which disappeared while enroute from Orange County Airport, Montgomery to Syracuse. The plane and the bodies of the captain's wife, Roberta, and two sons, Brian and Scott were found in the debris on a peak near Craggs-moor the same day the Cana-dian aircraft was spotted.

Sights Wreckage

Mrs. Brownlee also sighted wreckage of a chartered plane that crashed in bad weather on a mountain in Greene County, while on the way to Kingston to pickup personnel of a local plant. Two pilots were killed in that mis-hap.

All three crashes occurred in bad weather. Contrary to a version of an official, Mrs. Brownlee said, "It is not fog and soup that causes crashes, it is a pilot's error for taking off in bad weather."

On Oct. 4, 1966, Mrs. Brown-lee sighted wreckage of a plane that crashed into Overlook Mountain in bad weather.

The most "fun flying" she has experienced was the Inter-national Air Race from Cald-well Wright Airport, N. J., to Nassau in the Bahamas in 1965. "My co-pilot, Audrey Gordon of Glenford, had soloed several weeks, Mrs. Brownlee said. "Although we had slaved over our race route, we were as babes in the woods com-pared to the pros. At one time we were surrounded by enor-mous thunderstorms. We saw a black funnel cloud.

"We were sure the sighting added airspeed," Mrs. Brown-lee said. "It was our first flight over any water wider than Long Island Sound. It was over 200 miles from Fort Lau-derdale to Nassau. Our return trip to Kingston again tangled with thunderstorms. We sat out a beauty after a landing in a tiny crop dusters airport in Tim-monsville, S. C. The Everglades were not as scary as we had thought they would be, but there was a drought that year."

Mrs. Brownlee, a former model in the garment district on New York's famed 7th Avenue, joined the CAP after receiving her commercial license. Al-though notable to attend regu-lar meetings she has been readily available for search and rescue missions and has participated in many. "It is terrain knowledge, which is important particularly in the mountains. "We who have inti-mate knowledge of the Cats-kills are often called out in emergencies," she said.

Mrs. Brownlee attended Kingston High School. She at-tended Chic School of Design and worked at several famed wedding gown manufacturing establishments, as a combined model and assistant designer.

While in that phase of de-signing junior dresses for Bon-wit Teller, and sport blouses and shirts which had been made in Kingston. She moved into another phase of model-ing, commercial photography and television photography. She married and had a daugh-ter Ardis, who is familiarly known to her friends as "Pixie," who marked her 10th birthday on Bastille Day, July 14.

Her husband was David J. Brown, who had the largest beauty salon in New York City at the time. She became in-terested in public relations work at that time and "talked my way into a job" at the Studio Club in Mt. Vernon by promising a great art exhibit from Woodstock.

"The exhibit was great" Mrs. Brownlee said, "and in-cluded Woodstock greats John Pike, Eugene Speicher, Kan Downer, John McClellan and many others. This led to the modeling at the Hotel Delmoni-cio publicity job, Alan Dale, students mentioned by the flight instructor are Madeline Kay Armen and others.

Mrs. Brownlee has among Eyles, Janet Livingston, a des-her students at the local air-cendant of one of the signers of port attorneys, doctors, busi- the original Constitution, Dr. nessmen and women, teenagers Patricia Wanning of Ulster and elderly including many Landing.

Toe Troubles

MOLINE, Ill. (AP) — Adela Kacprzyk befriended a neighbor Tuesday and ended up with her right big toe imprisoned in the tailpipe of a small foreign car. Firemen freed her from the car and doctors at a hospital freed her toe from a length of exhaust pipe the firemen had trapped Mrs. Kacprzyk's toe.

It all happened when Mrs. Kacprzyk went outdoors to em-py garbage. She noticed her neighbor's car had rolled 300 feet down an alley and had come to rest against a retaining wall. She and the neighbor pushed it away from the wall but the car rolled back and

Using U.S. Dollar In Poverty Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Private organizations are using Uncle Sam's dollars to launch antipoverty programs in Appalachia—in competition with federal efforts.

The government would like nothing better than seeing an economic upsurge stimulate a region where officials say 5.18 million people—one of every three residents—still live in poverty despite long-time concentration and heavy government outlays.

So far Appalachia's mountains and valleys have proved virtually impervious to every sort of antipoverty attack.

"We're trying to get the private sector to mount some competitive programs," says Samuel C. Sharp, director of the Center for Economic Opportunity at Ohio University, Athens, Ohio. "We think the government could use a little competition."

Sharp's center has a $585,000 Office of Economic Opportunity grant. Other groups in Appalachia also have received grants to chart ways to put the government's war on poverty out of business.

It's all perfectly legal. In fact, these competitive programs have the blessing of Congress.

From the university campus just inside the 373-county area of 12 states designated as the Appalachia region, Sharp's center is encouraging businessmen to develop their own programs to aid Appalachia's poor.

The former clergyman, 45, cites as an example a garage owner who trained several unemployed men as mechanics—without government financing.

Sharp is enlisting Jaycees—members of the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce—young business and professional men, in setting up similar human development programs. The project is dubbed Operation Alternative, to be operated on the local level by Jaycee chapters.

In other areas of Appalachia, economic planning is advanced as the key to solving the area's problems.

"Building a strong local economy is the answer—and this will work the federal government right out of its job," said Philip C. Gross of Big Stone Gap, Va.

Gross is a planner for Lenowisco, an organization which is trying, with the help of a $35,700 government grant, to develop a self-sustaining economy in the three counties and one city it represents.

Gross said in an interview that some poverty programs have made some progress, but he still is critical of a work relief project known locally as the "Happy Pappy" program.

In this program, unemployed fathers are paid up to $250 a month for such work as patching roads and cutting brush from creek banks.

"In the transition from the welfare program to a permanent job—this is where we come in. A private enterprise economy can do it, but we still have to beat the 'Happy Pappy' program."

Much of Appalachia's hard-core poverty is centered in the western tip of Virginia, where Big Stone Gap is located, and in southwestern West Virginia, eastern Kentucky and eastern Tennessee.

But even in these areas, some towns and some new industries are flourishing.

Greenville, Tenn., is one example.

With extensive local effort and an injection of nearly $2 million in federal grants and loans, Greenville has doubled its population in the past 20 years, to 14,000 residents, and has become the home of more than 50 large and small industrial and commercial enterprises. Included are furniture, electronics and

New Push—Old Idea.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The idea of churches paying taxes, as advocated by some churchmen recently, is not a new one. The Christian Churches (Disciples) headquarters here notes that President James A. Garfield, a lay preacher in the denomination, told Congress in 1874: "The division between the church and state ought to be so absolute that no church property anywhere in the state or nation should be exempt from taxation, for if you exempt the property of any church organization, to that extent you impose a church tax upon the whole community."

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

July 19, 1947—Merchandise valued at $50 was reported stolen from a DeWitt Lake concession stand.

Mrs. Louise Patchen, 81, a former resident of West Chestnut Street, died at a local sanitarium.

Area state police sought a hit-and-run driver said to have hit a West Saugerties man and his son.

George E. Yerry Jr., local labor leader, announced plans for publishing a labor newspaper.

July 19, 1957—Men of the 156th Field Artillery Battalion were due to return here from Camp Drum July 20.

Aug. 13 was fixed as tax grievance day in the city.

The pool at the IBM Swim Center was dedicated.

MASONIC LODGE IN ELLENVILLE

Conclude Building

Wawarsing Lodge 582 F & AM has a new fireproof Masonic Temple at 14 Center Street in Ellenville. Construction, which began Feb. 20 under supervision of Ellenville contractors Leeland and Poppo, was completed on the site recently.

The two-story building is 70 feet long and includes a spacious lobby on the ground floor, a complete basement dining area, a parking lot in the rear and a vehicle entrance from Canal Street on the north side of the Temple. The lot runs from street to street.

Formal cornerstone and dedication ceremonies are scheduled for September, when the Lodge and the Eastern Star resume their regular meeting program. The exact date will be fixed later to suit the itinerary of the Grand Master of the State of New York Lodge, who has been invited to preside at the event.

Talks Continue

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — The military strongmen of Paraguay and Argentina went into their second day of talks today on economic issues and the guerrilla outbreaks in neighboring Bolivia. Paraguay's president, Gen. Alfredo Stroessner, landed at Aeroparque Airport Tuesday in conclusion of their talks Thursday.

Border Incident

MOSCOW (AP) — Chinese Communist Red Guards crossed the eastern Soviet border several days in a row and taunted Soviet frontier soldiers, Pravda reported Wednesday. It said they took place when the Issuri River was frozen.

The story by correspondent Konstantin Simonov about a saline lake with no outlet is called a sink.

55 Perish In Air Crash

BERLIN (AP)—Foreign Minister Albert Sylla of the Malagasy republic and 54 other persons were killed today in the crash of an airliner on the East African island of Madagascar (Malagasy), ADN, the official East German news agency, reported.

ADN, in a dispatch from Tananarive, the capital of Madagascar, said the plane, a DC4, crashed shortly after taking off from the Tananarive airport.

Nyack Rampage

NYACK, N.Y. (AP) — About 100 sheriff's deputies and police men from neighboring Hudson Valley towns and villages put down a rock-throwing, window-breaking rampage early today by about 50 young Negroes.

The youths tore through part of the village's business district, breaking windows in shops, homes, schools and autos before the helmeted officers could bring the situation under control police said. No looting or serious injuries were reported.

Nyack is a village of 7,000 about 28 miles north of New York City in Rockland County.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

Jewelry Class Organized at Local Gallery

Richard Rapaport, the Woodstock Artists Association's printer-in-residence this summer, is showing yet another talent by organizing highly successful jewelry classes in the Graphic Workshop behind the Artists Association Gallery.

Rapaport says that no experience is necessary for this class, which specializes in gold and silver work, and that all materials will be available at the workshop.

Party Every Friday

Finding Woodstock a congenial and informal place in which to live and work, Rapaport has entered into the spirit of the community by holding an open-house party every Friday at 7 p. m. Refreshments are provided.

New Semester

The regular classes in etching, lithography, and woodcuts are being held on three different schedules, morning, afternoon, and evening on three days per week. Currently there are about 12 regular students studying at the workshop, but those who have not yet signed up may write the Woodstock Artists Association for more information soon. Rates are scheduled by month, week, or even by day, for those who cannot accommodate a definite schedule.

Church Russian Tour

NASHVILLE (AP)—Thirty-one Methodists, most of them college students, left June 20 for two months in the Soviet Union as participants in a study-travel seminary sponsored by the church's Division of Higher Education and American University in Washington.

Local Youths Take Part In Beautification Plan

Governor Rockefeller announced today that official approval has been given to a Hometown Beautification project employing 10 local youths from Town of Woodstock in Ulster County.

The Governor said that the project was established in Woodstock through the cooperation of William R. West, Supervisor and with the approval of the New York State Division for Youth, sponsor of the program.

Areas to be improved in the Town of Woodstock are the Town Recreation Field, the Big Deep park, and the Town Park. At these work sites, the youths will improve the Town Recreation Field, clear and develop the Big Deep park area; and generally clean up and improve the Town Park areas.

The Town of Woodstock is one of 144 communities cooperating with the State Division for Youth to provide employment in worthwhile local beautification projects for youths from age 16 through 21. The program will provide jobs for 2,755 youths over a seven-week period at $1.25 per hour for a 35-hour week.

Under the program the State reimburses the local communities for the salaries of the youths employed. The sponsoring community provides all supplies, materials and equipment, transportation and other related administrative costs including the salaries of work supervisors. The $825,000 allocated to the Division for Youth for the program was included in Governor Rockefeller's 1967-68 budget.

Film Writer Koch to Be League Guest

The well known film writer, Howard Koch, will be the guest speaker at the Friday noon forum at the Art Students League summer school.

Among Koch's best known films are Casablanca, The Loss of Innocence and a new film soon to be released, The Fox, an adaptation from the D. H. Lawrence book. He is also author of the Orson Wells Martian Invasion radio broadcast.

These Friday noon sessions were initiated a number of years ago and have become a feature of the League's summer school.

The participants have been many important painters, sculptors, poets, composers, art critics and scientists. Among these have been Philip Guston, Sidney Geist, Ad Reinhardt, Lawrence Campbell, Rosemary Beck, Helen Wolfert, Dr. Tarr, Dr. Hugo Munsterberg, Nicholas Marsicano, Anton Refregier and Algernon Black who will again be a guest speaker Aug. 4.

There have been many others who in their particular way have made a contribution to the scope of culture.

The moderator is Arnold Blanch.

The sessions are held out of doors and all Woodstockers and visitors may attend. There is no admission fee.

Library Books

The following popular fiction and non-fiction books were received this week at Kingston Library.

Fiction

Caiden, M., No Man's World. A gripping realistic and authentically detailed portrayal of America's first moonflight.

Papaleo J., All The Comforts. Etches carefully the whole panorama of those who desperately seek the comforts.

Smith, A., Son of Rhubarb. A fantastically funny story of a kid sired by the immortalized and distinguished cat Rhubarb.

Non-Fiction

Allen, G., William James. A new and definitive biography of the great American psychologist and philosopher.

Brash, R., How Did It Begin. A fascinating study of the superstitions, customs, and strange habits that influence our daily lives.

Carmer, C., My Kind Of Country. An impressive composite of favorite writings on New York State.

Aged in Lime

For generations, one of the favorite delicacies in China has been eggs preserved for years in caustic lime. The aging in lime eliminates the obnoxious odor and had taste usually associated with decomposed eggs.

One Publisher Looks Fetching In Miniskirt

BY BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Few newspaper publishers look as fetching in a miniskirt as does Tichi Wilkerson Miles.

She is a willowy brunette with the high cheek bones and regal beauty that would qualify her as a film personality. She had opportunities to become one—"but mother would never hear of such a thing." Instead, she has carved herself a career as owner-publisher of the Hollywood Reporter, one of the town's two daily trade papers.

For 35 years the Reporter has been as much a part of the Hollywood scene as the Grauman's Chinese footprints. Everyone from studio bosses to chorus girls scans its columns each weekday morning to learn of the latest picture deals, plus who is dating whom. The founder of the paper was William R. Wilkerson, a dapper, tough-minded man who sometimes espoused the causes of the film giants, sometimes feuded bitterly with them.

In 1962, Billy Wilkerson died, leaving the Reporter to his young widow, mother of his two children. The film crowd knew her only as the decorative consort of the veteran publisher, and it was expected that she would sell the paper.

"I got plenty of offers—and I still do," says Tichi—a Latin name—she is half-Spanish, born in Los Angeles, reared in Mexico. "No one could believe that I wanted to run the Reporter myself. But I aimed to hold onto it, especially for the children."

She explained that her children—Willie, 15 and Cindy, 14—considered the Reporter's Sunset Boulevard plant a second home. She herself had more experience on the paper than most people realized.

"Billy was in poor health during the last years of his life," she explained, "and he used me more and more to help him. Eventually he moved a desk into his office—the one I am occupying now—and I spent a great deal of time there. We had some grand fights over the paper's policies."

"When I took over after he died, it wasn't easy. The younger workers on the paper accepted me, but the older group thought I was going to be just a figurehead and they would assume the power. It was a question of decisiveness, and I had to take charge. Most people accepted this. Those who didn't—well, they are no longer with the Reporter."

Tichi, now married to Los Angeles businessman-realtor William Miles, admitted that she sometimes had to fire employees. The Hollywood Reporter has profited during Tichi's stewardship. Circulation has risen from 6,900 to over 10,000; average yearly income of subscribers is estimated at $25,000; revenues are up 40 per cent. Not only does the publisher have no intention of selling out, she is looking for other fields of expansion.

Area Quakers Hear Reports On Vietnam

Members of the Religious Society of Friends, New Paltz, heard reports of the American Friends Committee activities in Vietnam after meeting for worship Sunday.

The report was prepared by David Stickney, an Illinois hospital official who just returned to the United States after 18 months in South Vietnam. This month the American Friends Service committee is launching two medical programs in conjunction with Quang Ngai Hospital.

While operating this program in South Vietnam the AFSC has made continuing efforts to expand its medical services to North Vietnam. In October 1966, it received a U. S. Treasury license to send $2,000 to the Canadian Friends Service Committee (Quakers) and $4,000 to the International Committee of the Red Cross in Geneva for the purchase and transmittal of medical supplies to North Vietnam, South Vietnam, and areas held by the National Liberation Front.

The AFSC also places young American volunteers with indigenous Vietnam agencies, arranges international conferences on Vietnam in Southeast Asia and promotes public discussion of the Vietnam war within the United States.

Sudowski-Mackey Nuptials Announced Wedding at New Paltz, July 1st

MRS. REID C. MACKEY (Tripod photo)

Miss Katherine Ann Sudowski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent S. Sudowski, Tillson, became the bride of Reid Charles Mackey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Mackey, New Paltz, at the Dutch Reformed Church, New Paltz, Saturday, July 1st.

The Rev. Gerret Wulfschleger officiated at the double ceremony with the opening prayer and benediction given by the Rev. Roger Leonard, Red Hook. Mrs. Arthur Kurtz played traditional wedding selections at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full empire length gown of lace and crepe, fashioned with a Sabrina scalloped edge neckline and long lace sleeves with a detachable train of matching lace. The crown was fashioned of pearls in the design of orange blossoms to which was attached a double illusion butterfly veil and a chapel veil which covered the length of the train. She carried a cascade of white and yellow daisies.

Miss Lucille Sudowski, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a pink chiffon floor length gown fashioned with a Sabrina neckline with small cap sleeves, and a flowing cape completed the back of the dress. A satin fold accented the empire lines. She wore a fluted headpiece of matching color with a double face and carried a basket of white and aqua daisies with small white carnations and baby's breath.

Attendants were Kathleen Wolfarth, Tillson, Penelope Chase, this city, and Bonita Bullock, Murray, Kentucky, sister of the bridegroom. Their aqua gowns were styled identically to that of the maid of honor and carried identical baskets of flowers with pink daisies.

Jeffrey Otis, New Paltz, was best man. Ushers were Bruce Aston, Wesley VanVleet, both from New Paltz, and William Bullock, Murray, Kentucky.

After the wedding a reception was held at the VFW, New Paltz, for 115 guests.

For her wedding trip to Massachusetts, the bride wore a two-piece white dress with red accessories.

Mrs. Mackey, a graduate of Kingston High School, is employed by Man Power Inc.

Mr. Mackey, a graduate of New Paltz Central School, will attend RETS Electronic School in Boston, Mass., where they will make their home.

Suzanne Johnson Weds Barry Wingert St. Francis de Sales Church, Phoenicia

MRS. BARRY T. WINGERT

Miss Suzanne Elizabeth Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Johnson, Shokan, recently became the bride of Barry Thomas Wingert, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wingert Sr., Bearsville.

The Rev. William Doughty, assistant pastor of St. Francis de Sales Church, Phoenicia, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown, styled in the empire fashion, edged in lace and featuring long sleeves of tapered lace. The detachable train fell from the shoulders to a graceful chapel length. Her imported silk illusion veil was attached to a crown of seed pearls and crystals. She carried a cascade bouquet of baby white chrysanthemums and daisies.

Mrs. Ellen Craig, Woodstock, was matron of honor. She wore a yellow floor length A-line gown, accented with a chartreuse velvet band at the waistline. Her headpiece was yellow lace fastened to a chartreuse bow. She carried a cascade of chartreuse and white daisies.

William Balmer, Woodstock, was best man. Ushers were Douglas Elghimey and Robert Garden, both of Woodstock.

A reception for 75 guests was held at the Log Cabin Restaurant, Shandaken.

For her wedding trip to Canada and the New England States, the bride selected a yellow A-line dress-coat ensemble with white accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Wingert are both graduates of Ontario Central School. Mr. Wingert is employed at Ferroxcube Corp., Saugerties.

Doing The Right Thing

BY ELIZABETH L. POST of the Emily Post Institute
AN HONOR NOT TO BE REFUSED

Dear Mrs. Post: I am to be matron of honor in a coming wedding. The rules of etiquette state that this honor cannot be refused, except in a rare emergency. In days gone by, the attendant's expenses were paid for by the bride's family; in that case refusal would be improper. But in this day, when all expenses are borne by the attendants, shouldn't she have the right to refuse gracefully? I'm married, and the money we're spending on the wedding dress, headpiece, shoes, underwear, gloves (all of which will never be worn again) and presents, could be spent to much better advantage on out bills or even a nice vacation. I feel I have not been chosen to participate out of affection, but necessity.

C.N.
Dear Mrs. N.: To be asked to serve as matron-of-honor is really an honor that cannot be denied. I find it hard to believe this choice was a matter of necessity.

If you wish to keep the family relations happy, you must accept. But you can discuss the choice of your dress with the bride, both as to expense and usefulness. Most bridesmaids' dresses nowadays can be, and are, used many times again, and certainly this is true of underwear, gloves and shoes. Lovely, simple dresses can be found for very little money.

I sympathize with your desire to spend money on things you and your husband might enjoy more, but that would surely be an insulting reason to refuse, and I feel you should accept and make the best of the situation.

Toddlers' Harnesses Favored

Dear Mrs. Post: I happened to see a little one hit by an auto. He had been ahead of his mother. If she had had him on a leash she could have pulled him back. If folks think enough to protect their pets, why not the precious little ones. So I vote yes, YES by all means for the leash.

Grama No. 3
Do Girls Give Boutonnieres?

Dear Mrs. Post: I am 16 years old and have just begun attending formal dances. At the last dance to which I was invited, every boy had a boutonniere except my date, as my mother told me it was not proper for a girl to give the boy flowers. I would like to know who was right, my mother or everyone else at the dance?

Dear Ginny: Your mother was right. Girls should not give their escorts boutonnieres unless it is girl-ask-boy party. A boy may order a boutonniere to be delivered to the girl's house with her corsage, but he pays for it himself.

Named to Dean's List
Among Ulster County students on the Dean's List at State University of New York at Albany for the fall list will be the following upper division scholars who achieved honor status as a result of grades earned for the semester which ended in June.

They are: Barbel Eggers of Stone Ridge; Joanne Everett, Eugene Street, Naponoch; Richard B. Friedman, Stoneykill Road, Kerhonkson; Frances Anne Ganci, Route 28, Shokan; and Nancy Angela Moore, RD 3, Box 129 Pine Bush.

Among those welcoming the group Monday morning will be Town Supervisor Peter Savago and Village Board member William Morris.

Monday night the visitors will host a reception on campus for a number of New Paltz residents who have invited the teachers to their homes Tuesday evening.

THE AMERICAN STRING QUARTET will give a performance of Chamber Music on Saturday, July 22, at 8:30 p. m. at the St. James Parish House on Route 9 in Hyde Park. The concert, sponsored by the Hudson Valley Chamber Music Circle, is the second in the 1967 summer series of concerts to be offered in the St. James hall. Tickets will be available at the door, and refreshments will be served after the concert.

Noted Quartet Set at Hyde Park

Max Hollander and Paul Winter, violinists, and Harold Coletta and Carl Stern, violist and cellist respectively, are known internationally through recitals and weekly network radio programs as "one of the finest string ensembles in the United States." Together they compose The American String Quartet which will present a program of chamber music this Saturday at 8:30 p. m. at St. James Parish House, Route 9, Hyde Park.

Sponsored by the non-profit Hudson Valley Chamber Music Circle, the program promises to be an excellent one since each of these musicians has been a member of the celebrated NBC Symphony, and each has built a distinguished career in the music world.

Max Hollander, a former concertmaster of the NBC Symphony, has been a motivating force in re-activating the Quartet. Mr. Hollander recalls that Maestro Toscanini continually urged the Quartet on to high standards, and was always its severest critic. A noted chamber music authority, Mr. Hollander has been very active in the field of recording and television in recent seasons. Early in his career, he played with the South Mountain Quartet, later with the Pervle Quartet, and was assisting artist with the Budapest String Quartet at the Library of Congress on a number of occasions.

Paul Winter, violinist, has been devoting his career to recordings and television since 1958. He was the youngest member of the NBC Symphony at its inception in 1937, and was concertmaster of the NBC staff orchestra from 1954 to 1958. Mr. Winter is a graduate of the Juilliard School of Music, and he studied with Paul Kochanski, Edouard Dethier and D. C. Dourris.

Harold Coletta, violist, was first a member of the New York Philharmonic under Toscanini, and later joined the NBC Symphony when it was established for the late Maestro. As soloist, he later toured South America with Leopold Stokowski's American Symphony Orchestra, and participated in the Casals Festival in Puerto Rico in 1958. Mr. Coletta has recorded prolifically, and is, at present, also solo violist with the WABC Symphony. In the summer of 1966, he concertized in Italy.

Carl Stern, cellist, was also a member of the NBC Symphony at its inception. In 1944, he joined the New York Philharmonic as assistant solo cellist, and was also solo cellist with the Lewisohn Stadium Symphony. He resigned his post with the New York Philharmonic in 1964 in order to pursue his interest in chamber music and teaching. Mr. Stern studied under Wilhelm Willeke of the Institute of Musical Art, now a part of the Juilliard School, and received the Artists' Diploma with honors and the Marcus Loeb Prize for outstanding talent.

There is no prerequisite for the course which is open to any interested person. History of the Far East will be a study of the traditional civilization of the Far East, chiefly China. Aside from the historical ramifications of China's imperial past, this course will emphasize the traditional Chinese schools of thought to show how Chinese traditional thinking has been absorbed into Maosism, the current ideological foundation of China. In addition, China's impact on the world scene of today, its relations with the USSR and the U.S., and its influence on Asia will be stressed.

Considering the vast scope of China's heritage, History of the Far East has been designed to offer the student a course in depth by focusing primarily on China's past and present.

Mrs. Fox Is Awarded Nature Scholarship

Little Gardens Club of Kingston president, Mrs. J. J. Carroll has been notified that garden club member, Mrs. David Fox, has been awarded a Nature Scholarship. This project is supported by New York State Federated Gardens Clubs and Region 11 Girl Scouts. Mrs. Fox is Nature Consultant for Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts. She is representing the council by attending Region 11 Audubon Camp in Medomak, Maine from July 16 to July 29.

The purpose of this Audubon Camp in Maine is to give information on Shore Life with main emphasis on the interrelationship of living things. The leadership training prepares the student to develop an appreciation of nature, as well as a sense of responsibility for the protection of natural resources, soil, water, plants and wild life.

Mrs. E. D. King Jr. is Scholarship Chairman of the Audubon Committee, New York State Federated Gardens Clubs. Two scholarships are given to Garden Club members and two to Region 11 Girl Scout leaders.

On the program for the educators to examine this year are closed circuit television instruction, teaching foreign languages, teacher-made instructional aids, art education.

Among those welcoming the group Monday morning will be Town Supervisor Peter Savago and Village Board member William Morris.

Monday night the visitors will host a reception on campus for a number of New Paltz residents who have invited the teachers to their homes Tuesday evening.

The Dave Clark Five Coming to Colonie

The Dave Clark Five will appear at Colonie Summer Theatre Monday evening, July 24. This group has the distinction of having been presented to the Queen of England at a Royal Command Performance. Adult critics have described the five young men as "the most musical of the groups."

Dave Clark is said to have the eye of a showman who takes care of every detail. The Five do not think that just appearing in person is all that matters, they say. Fans are their primary concern and they try to give audiences what they paid for. These five young men, who have personally arranged their own songs, make the most of their talents in every performance, fans maintain.

In addition to appearing on all the major television shows they have done "specials." Film credits include "Get Yourself a College Girl" and "Having a Wild Weekend." They have recorded over 45 singles and have recently completed their tenth album.

As an added attraction Ruff Francis and the Illusions will appear as the opening act, bringing on the Dave Clark Five.

Tickets may be obtained at the box-office, by telephone or by writing to Box 136, Latham, N. Y.

Hails Gift of Land To Orange College

Mrs. Christine M. Morrison's gift of more than three acres of land to Orange County Community College President Robert T. Novak today as "momentous" for the continued growth of the college.

The grant of seven parcels of property, adjacent to the present OCCC campus, on South Street, Wawayanda Avenue and East Conkling Avenue, Middletown, was made to the Orange County Board of Supervisors at its monthly meeting Friday at Goshen.

"This land will allow new movement and direction as OCCC expands to meet an anticipated enrollment of 3,000 full-time students by 1974," Dr. Novak said. He said the acreage would undoubtedly be used for new buildings, but the number and type of structures could not be specified until a campus master plan is completed. OCCC enrollment in 1966-67 was approximately 1,680 full-time day students.

"Mrs. Morrison's generosity to the county and its college is historic," the college president said. "We are indeed delighted that she continues to feel that the college is worthy of such a gift. Her interest in the college, and her deep concern for community college education, is greatly appreciated."

The college was founded on the original 16-acre Morrison property at Middletown in September of 1950 after Mrs. Morrison offered the site to the county and the board of directors of Horton Memorial Hospital ceded their rights to the estate.

Highlights of Minnewaska Concerts, Curtis String Quartet, Concert Band

Curtis String Quartet, a 90-member symphony orchestra, as well as rousing concert band and chorus, highlight third and fourth weekends of Minnewaska Concerts.

Held under the 2,500-seat, blue-and-white striped music tent near Ski Minneka at Lake Minnewaska, it is just off highways U.S. 44-N.Y. 55, nine miles southeast of New Paltz. The music on Fridays, July 21 and 28 at 8 p. m.; the new 90-member Minnewaska Symphony Orchestra on Saturdays, July 22 and 29 at 8 p. m.; and the new Minnewaska Concert Band and Chorus on Sundays, July 23 and 30 at 3 p. m.

The Curtis String Quartet will be heard for the next two successive Friday evenings, July 21 and 28. On July 21, the Curtis will be assisted by members of Ithaca Woodwind Quintet in Beethoven's Septet in E for Strings and Winds, Opus 20. Louis Vyner will conduct the Minnewaska Symphony July 22 with Geoffrey Michaels as soloist in Bruch's Violin Concerto No. 1 in G Minor, Opus 26. Thomas Michalak, of the Philadelphia Chamber Symphony Orchestra, will conduct the Minnewaska Symphony on July 29.

The new 60-member concert band and 45-voice chorus, heard the next two Sunday afternoons July 23 and 30, at 3 o'clock, will be conducted by Edward Goebrecht and choral director Dr. Russell P. Getz.

The July 22 program includes selections from Mozart, Prokofiev and Beethoven. Saturday, July 23, the Minnewaska Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Louis Vyner, will include music by Von Weber, Schubert, Bruch and Sibelius. Sunday afternoon a Spanish march, "Amaritoroca," by Jaime Texidex, will be directed by Dr. Russell P. Getz. Other composers on the program include Beethoven.

At Mile High Denver

PGA Opens Thursday Palmer to Try Again

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — The 49th edition of the PGA Golf Championship, which in the past was played for a purse considerably below its $150,000 this year, begins its 72-hole run Thursday with all of America's current favorites in the field.

Some 150 professionals, 48 of them members of the tournament tour, are set to tee off at the Columbine Country Club's par 72 challenge, one that measures 7,436 yards.

Included are Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Billy Casper, and largely overlooked in pre-tournament speculation, the defending champion, Al Geiberger.

The top money is $25,000 and the least anyone can get if he completes the 72 holes is $300.

Natives hope for clear weather throughout the four rounds but all warn that it could rain.

Denver's mile-high altitude has been under scrutiny, a subject which should hardly cause anyone here any loss of sleep. It was even announced that PGA officials were concerned enough to order oxygen tanks installed every four or five holes.

Nicklaus in Field
Nicklaus, winner of the U.S. Open last month, has just arrived on the scene after finishing second in the British Open.

The PGA is one major tournament Palmer never has won to go along with his U.S. Open, four Masters and two British Open titles.

Palmer's closest was second to Nichols at Columbus, Ohio, in 1964.

Geiberger won the PGA title at Akron, Ohio last year by four strokes. He shot 68-72-68-72—270, even par at the Firestone Golf and Country Club, a course regarded as one of the longest and toughest the pros face.

Ticket Sales High
Advance ticket sales have topped the $300,000 mark and Columbine officials believe they may set a PGA record for gate receipts. The weekend—June in Denver history has put the 18 holes in perfect condition.

The flat, 12-year-old course curving along the west bank of the treacherous South Platte River, stretches 7,436—longest in PGA history. But pros say because of the thin air at this altitude the course will play seven per cent shorter, something like a 6,900-yard sea-level layout. Par is 36-72.

Home pro Tony Novitsky calls his links, "long, beautiful and absolutely unforgiving."

In the qualifying play by 45 Colorado pros, the course yielded only two eagles and 41 birdies out of 1,620 holes played.

"Columbine will pay tougher for the PGA," Novitsky says.

Arnold Palmer — Can He Make It?

"Pin placements for the qualifying rounds and the rough will be two to three inches deeper."

The critical holes in Novitsky's opinion will be Nos. 14 and 16 which gave up no birdies in local qualifying.

No. 14 is a 473-yard par 4 uphill hole with fairway traps as well as sand on both sides of the small tree-rimmed green.

No. 16, par 3 and shortest on the course at 194 yards, is extremely tight with out of bounds left and right and very close in back. A moderate hog-back undulates across the small green fronted by traps and water.

About the only missing big names will be Ben Hogan, who says the mountain air aggravates a respiratory ailment and Gary Player, who has another commitment.

It was nice and easy Tuesday for the first place Perry's Grill nine in a 7-1 City Softball League win over Gordon's Bar at Upper Hasbrouck Park.

Bill Costello hurled a four-hitter and fanned 11 while his mates rapped loser Gene Palladino and relief hurler Frank Allen for seven hits.

Joe Clausi homered for the winners while Costello and Mike Amato doubled. Charles Williams stroked two singles and Costello added a single to his double. Fred Jackson singled twice for Gordon's.

Tonight's league game will find Gordon's opposing Subway in a 6 o'clock game at Hasbrouck.

National League rivals are wary of the New York Mets when there's an extra inning game because the Mets won their first six overtime games this season.

Wolven Hurls 2nd No-Hitter
Bob (Mouse) Wolven tied his season no-hitter of the season against Ferroxcube as league leading Michael's Barber Shop whitewashed the cellar dwellers, 13-0, in a Yankee division Saugerties Softball League game.

Wolven faced the minimum 21 men during his seven inning stint. The only baserunner, who reached first on a walk, was erased in a double-play. He fanned a dozen batters.

The ace chucker also aided his cause on offense, belting a two-run homer. Bill Fischer also homered, his third of the season.

Tonight's game matches the Community Billiard Center against Anton's Restaurant.

Dorplan "9" Will Bring Ace Pitcher

Kingston Braves play their first independent game of the season Thursday night at Dietz Stadium, when they take on the crack Kraal Athletic Club of Schenectady.

The Dorplans are defending champions in the Schenectady baseball tournament which annually attracts some of the best teams in the capital district.

Two and two with two rain-outs in the Interstate League, the Braves are hopeful of clear weather for a change and the weather man says they may just get that for the 8 p. m. contest.

Have Ace Hurler
In Ralph Williams, the Schenectady Kraals have one of the finest pitchers the Braves will be called upon to face this season. He limited the Kingston All Stars to 2 hits in a 2-1 victory in the 1967 tournament opener.

Braves have three possible pitching choices — right handers Ron Thomas and Ted Bream and fireballing southpaw Frank McGowan. Bream, however, is a remote possibility since he pitched 7 innings in the City Baseball League Tuesday night.

Thomas missed the abbreviated Millerton contest last Saturday night, but is expected to be on deck Thursday. He appears to be the probable starter with McGowan the No. 1 relief choice, if needed.

Lineup Changes
Manager Dick Bartsch made his first major lineup change against Millerton, moving hard hitting Chick Boice from first base to right field and installing Ricky Evberg at first.

Evberg has been hitting the ball at a lively clip in the city circuit.

Speed Model Wins Feature
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Speed Model was a model of speed at Buffalo Raceway Wednesday night when she captured the $6,260 W. N. Reynolds Memorial trial in 2:03 4-5.

The Grand Circuit event for 3-year-old fillies highlighted evening's harness racing action in New York State.

The bay, driven by Art Hult, took the lead at the three-quarter pole and surged to a 3 1/2-length victory over Duchess Rose. Floral Hanover finished third in the mile contest.

Speed Model returned $4.80. In races featured at other harness ovals in New York State:

Yonkers Raceway — Meadow Tarport ($8.20), a 5-year-old son of Jamie, won the $6,000 Bedford Village pace by a neck in 2:02 4-5, defeating Mr. Jim T. and third-place Sir Charles Pick.

Saratoga Raceway — Torpid Vic ($2.60) won a leg of the $2,300 pace for 2-year-olds in 2:04 4-5. Duane Again was nearly four lengths back, trailed to the wire by third-place Quinto Adios.

Vernon Downs — snow Speed took the lead in the last quarter and won the $2,000 nonbetting trot for 2-year-old colts and geldings. It was clocked in 2:05 2-5, with Lonnie Hanover in second and Hoosier Smoke third.

The Decisive Play
It was 4-2 when the decisive play occurred in the seventh. Killebrew had walked, took second on a balk and tried to score on Tony Oliva's single, but Killebrew missed the plate as he and catcher Phil Roof collided and Roof tagged him out. Roof then threw out Oliva trying for second, completing a strange doubleplay.

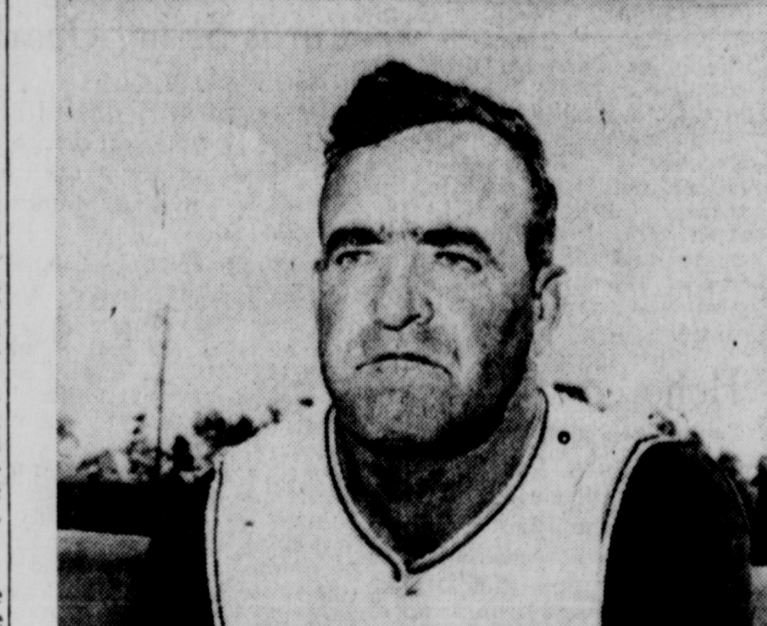

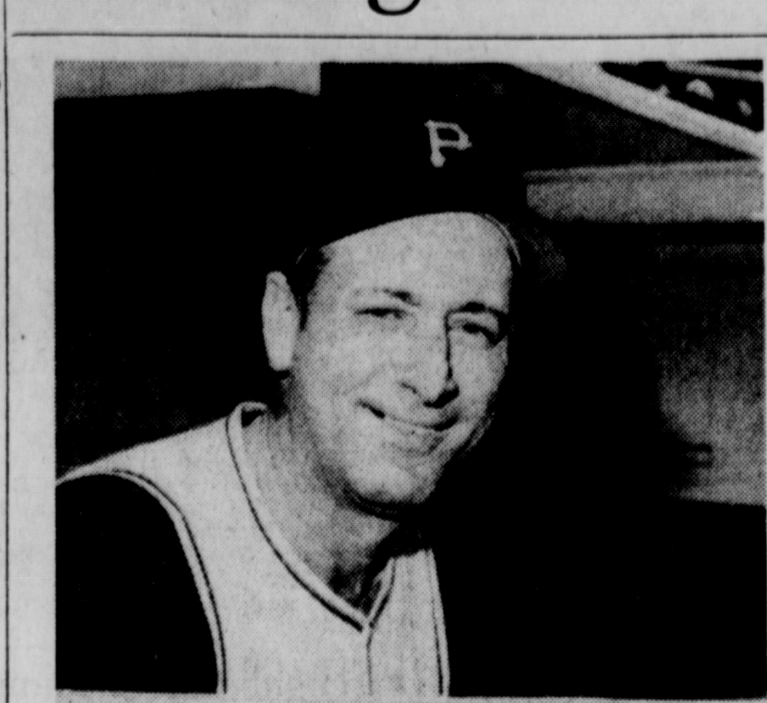

Bobby Knoop's two-run single climaxed a four-run first inning off Gary Peters, 11-5, and started the Angels to their 29th victory in 41 games.

First 13 Game Winner
Bill Kelso saved rookie Ricky Clark's sixth straight triumph with 3-1-3 innings of relief, yielding only a two-out homer by Walt Williams in the ninth.

Lonborg became the first 13-game winner in the major leagues this season as he halted the Orioles on five hits including Curt Motton's two-run homer, with 11 strikeouts. He also contributed a run-scoring single in a five-run second inning that wrapped the Red Sox' fifth straight victory.

Wilson, who has been criticized for running out of gas in the late innings, hurled his fifth complete game, a five-hitter, and drove in two runs as the

Nash Stumbled Over Killebrew Again—But Twins Fell Flat

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Nash stumbled over Harmon Killebrew again, but it was Killebrew and the Minnesota Twins who fell flat on their faces and missed another chance to share the American League lead.

Killebrew slammed his 27th homer and fourth off Nash this season, but he and the Twins got their lumps later on a controversial play that insured last-place Kansas City's 5-2 victory over Minnesota Tuesday night.

Nash combined with Jack Aker for a three-hitter, keeping the Twins a game behind the league-leading Chicago White Sox after Minnesota missed a similar chance to pull into a tie Monday.

The White Sox held their lead despite a 6-3 loss to California, which climbed within 3 1/2 games of the Sox.

Boston and Detroit also moved up. The Red Sox closed within 2 1/2 games by beating Baltimore 6-2 behind Jim Lonborg, and Earl Wilson pitched the Tigers within 3 1/2 games by stopping Washington 5-2. The New York Yankees were rained out at Cleveland.

Ken Harrelson had doubled home two unearned runs and scored a third in the first inning, giving Nash a 3-0 lead. But Killebrew, who beat Nash with two homers in one game and homered in another victory over him, closed the deficit to 3-2 with a two-run shot in the fourth inning.

Yesterday's Stars
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
PITCHING — Rick Wise, Phillies, held Los Angeles without a hit until the sixth inning and finished with a four-hitter for his first major league shutout as Philadelphia beat the Dodgers 5-0.

BATTING — Don Kessinger, Cubs, stroked four hits, including two doubles, and drove in five runs as Chicago pounded Atlanta 9-3.

Baseball's Top Hitting Team Often Doesn't
PITTSBURGH (AP) — It didn't take Danny Murtaugh long to find out why Harry Walker was fired.

All it took was two pitches by Billy O'Dell that ruined a good pitching job by Tommie Sisk and turned a Pirate doubleheader sweep against San Francisco into a split Tuesday night.

Willie McCovey slammed O'Dell's second pitch for a two-run homer and a 3-2 Gian victory after Pittsburgh won the first game 8-6.

That marked the fourth time in eight games since the All-Star break that baseball's best hitting team got good pitching and lost.

Walker pinpointed it as he unwound in the living room of his suburban home Tuesday afternoon before Murtaugh even put on a uniform.

"Just one more hit a day, that's all it would have taken," he said. "But that's baseball."

Murtaugh, who stepped down in 1964 after managing the Pirates for 7 1/2 seasons, was talked out of retirement by General Manager Joe Brown only 19 days after Brown said Walker would be his manager for a "long time."

Short 'Long Time'
That "long time" ended Monday when, Brown said, he decided Walker would have to go if the Pirates were to escape from the second division.

Tuesday morning Brown told Walker he was fired and Murtaugh was announced as interim manager at a hastily called afternoon news conference. The coaching staff remained intact.

The 49-year-old Murtaugh, who had been a special administrative assistant to Brown, guided Pittsburgh to its only world championship in the past 40 years in 1960. His over-all record was 605 wins and 548 defeats.

At the end of the 1964 season, he said he wouldn't manage again because of a weak stomach, saying managing put too much of a strain on his health.

"I came back only because Joe Brown asked me to," Murtaugh said, emphasizing he would manage only through the end of the season.

Walker said he left with no bitterness toward Brown, the man who hired him when Murtaugh stepped down in 1964.

Walker's record for 2 1/2 years was 24-184. His 1965 and 1966 clubs both placed third.

Bobby T. Ace Cops Feature
MONTICELLO, New York — Bobby T. Ace, owned by the Big Three Stable of Hempstead, New York, won the featured pace for two-year-olds at Monticello Raceway last night, reined by Robert Camper in 2:07.1.

Fourth at the half behind War Byrd, who took the early lead under Jim Grundy's guidance, the Meadow Ace colt was third at the three-quarter post moving steadily. He won by a length over War Byrd, with Baron Duane, part of the W. Haughton stable entry, third.

It was the second win in five outings for Bobby T. Ace who returned $7.60, 4.60 and 2.20 across the board.

The daily double combination of 3-8 returned $167.40 with Nuthin' Fancy driven home by Julian Rosino in the first and Bye Bye Pick came from the outside to win the second under Frank Tagariello's guidance.

Hartwick College AD Accepts Soccer Job
ONEONTA, N.Y. (AP) — David L. Haase, varsity soccer coach at Hartwick College since 1961, has resigned to become director of local development for the Atlanta Chiefs of the National Professional Soccer League.

The college announced Tuesday that Haase would assume his new duties in Atlanta, Ga., on Saturday.

During his six years at Hartwick, Haase's teams compiled a 53-13-4 record.

With Ted Bream twirling a nifty two-hitter, the Lions Club moved into sole possession of first place in the City Baseball League with a 5-0 win over Elmer's Inn Tuesday at Dietz Stadium.

In the second, Matt Weishaup singled, Greg Rios whacked a double, Jack Schatzel hit a sacrifice fly and Jerry Corrado followed with a sacrifice fly.

Charlie Lay walked to start the third inning uprising. He was bunted to second by Mike Derrenbacher. Hits by Pete Watzka and Weishaup scored two runs and an error netted the other marker.

Bream gave up scattered singles and walked three while fanning seven. His mates backed him with an errorless defense.

Frazier Set For Chualvo

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — "I'll be out there smoking. That means working every minute, every second. I know nobody ever knocked him down but there always is the first time," said Joe Frazier, unbeaten No. 2 heavyweight contender.

"It's do or die. I know I've got to win. I'm in the prime of life and I have the style to beat him. I think I can knock him out," said George Chualvo, off-beat Canadian champion.

Frazier, winner of 16 straight, is a 24-1 favorite over Chualvo, who went 15 rounds with Cassius Clay a year ago, when they met tonight in a 12-round match at Madison Square Garden.

Because both are aggressive fighters who like to walk in and punch, a crowd of 15,000 is expected to pay over $100,000 to see the bout which will be televised nationally, with New York blacked out, on a special Garden-RKO General network. Ring time is 10 p.m. EDT.

Both fighters are passing up the World Boxing Association's eight-man tournament to determine a successor to Clay who was stripped of his title by the WBA and the New York State Athletic Commission. However, the winner will be in a good shouting position, especially if it is Frazier, the 23-year-old former Olympic champion from Philadelphia.

Reliever Regan Tops Bucs, 2-1 In Rare Start

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer

The Vulture was ready to glide back to his favorite perch today after a rare distance flight that picked apart the Philadelphia Phillies.

Relief specialist Phil Regan, who earned the "Vulture" tag last season by swooping out of the Los Angeles bullpen for 14 late-inning victories, beat Philadelphia 2-1 Tuesday night in his first start in nearly two years.

"I have no illusion. I still like the bullpen," Regan said after working seven strong innings in his National League debut as a starter. "But this start did me good. It helped me straighten myself out."

It also prevented the Dodgers from folding up after they dropped the two-night doubleheader opener 5-0 to Rick Wise, who scattered four hits for his first major league shutout.

Regan's clutch performance — with an assist from Ron Perranoski in the last two innings — kept the eighth-place Dodgers one game in front of the New York Mets, who trimmed Houston 4-2 and sent the Astros into the cellar.

The Pittsburgh Pirates gave new Manager Danny Murtaugh a winning sendoff with an 8-6 verdict over San Francisco before the Giants came back to take the doubleheader nightcap 2-2. The Chicago Cubs beat Atlanta 9-3 and moved within one game of first-place St. Louis, beaten by Cincinnati 7-4.

Manager Walter Alston gave Regan his first starting assignment in 96 appearances for the Dodgers after rookie Bill Singer came up with a sore arm. The 30-year-old right-hander, who had been struggling along with a 2-4 record, responded by holding the Phils to five hits and striking out six before giving way to Perranoski.

Len Gabrielson provided the margin of victory with a two-run homer in the second inning. Regan last started for Detroit in September 1965. The Tigers traded him to Los Angeles that winter and he came through with a 14-1 mark in 65 relief stints last year.

New York's Hal Reniff came out of the bullpen in the sixth inning and blanked Houston on two hits the rest of the way, protecting the Mets' two-run edge and extending his scoreless string to 18 innings. He has not yielded a run in nine appearances since the Mets acquired him from the Yankees three weeks ago.

Bud Harrison stole home in the fifth inning, snapping a 2-2 tie, after Ed Matthews' two-run homer had pulled the Astros even in the top of the fifth.

Murtaugh, who managed Pittsburgh from 1957 through 1964, replaced Harry Walker Tuesday morning, then watched the Pirates erupt for six runs in the fifth inning of the first game, with Donn Clendenon's two-run double and a two-run homer by Gene Alley the big blows.

The Giants gained a split when Willie McCovey greeted reliever Billy O'Dell with a two-run homer in the seventh, erasing Pittsburgh's 2-1 lead.

Don Kessinger drove in five runs with two doubles and two singles and right-hander Ferguson Jenkins boosted his pitching mark to 12-7 as the Cubs rolled to their fourth straight victory and snapped Atlanta's four-game winning string.

The Reds buried the Cardinals with a seven-run burst in the seventh inning keyed by Dick Simpson's grand slam double. Jim Maloney, lifted for a pinch hitter during the winning rally after being tagged for homers by Roger Maris and Orlando Cepeda, picked up his eighth victory in 13 decisions.

SIGNS PROCLAMATION—Kingston Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan signs a proclamation designating the week of July 24-29 as State Sports Spectacular Week in the city. During that time the New York State Jaycees will be conducting their annual Sports Spectacular for the teenage youth of the state. With the mayor in the photo is George Lombardo, general chairman of the Spectacular.

Knights, VFW Gain Babe Ruth Decisions

Knights of Columbus made three hits represent seven runs in a 7-1 Babe Ruth League win over Legion Post 150 Tuesday at Dietz Stadium.

In the other game, VFW decided the Vols, 8-4, at Loughran Park.

Pete Koolia hurled a two-hitter for the Knights. His mates took advantage of six walks off Skip Lyons to score three runs in the first and four more in the second inning.

Paul Saehoff of the winners doubled for the only extra base hit of the game.

Bill Brady turned in several defensive gems and halted a Vols rally with a good relief stint in leading the VFW to its victory. Ricky Sorenson was the winning chucker.

Dwight Byrd was the batting star with three singles for the Vols.

Plan Long Range Olympic Tests In Mexico City

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) —The U.S. Olympic track and field committee plans, starting next week, to initiate a long-range, high-altitude training program for the 1968 Olympic Games at 7,500-foot-high Mexico City.

The program, announced today by Hilmer Lodge of Pala, Calif., committee chairman, involves preliminary training during August by prospective Olympic runners at distances ranging upwards from 800 meters at four high altitude areas. Lodge made the announcement as the U.S. squad was in the second day of a three-day exodus to the fifth Pan-American Games which open in Winnipeg Sunday.

The high-altitude training will begin in earnest after the Olympic trials at Los Angeles next June 28-30, and prior to official selection of the U.S. team Sept. 12, 1968. The Mexico City Games will be held Oct. 12-27, with the Olympic Village opening Sept. 15.

To Test Six Men

Lodge and Bill Bowerman, Oregon's famed distance coach and chairman of an Olympic high-altitude training committee, will recommend to the full Olympic committee meeting in Chicago Sept. 8-9 that at least six men be tested at high altitude for each Olympic endurance event before the final team selection.

Thus, instead of the top three finishers in the involved events clinching berths at the Los Angeles trials, there will be six-man battles for Olympic assignments at Alamosa, Colo., Los Alamos, N.M., Flagstaff, Ariz., or South Lake Tahoe, Calif., next midsummer.

These are the four sites surveyed and approved by Lodge and Bowerman for informal training next month. Two or three, or all four sites could be certified for the post-Olympic trials training next year.

Alamosa, Los Alamos and Flagstaff all are about 7,500 feet above sea level and South Lake Tahoe 6,200.

Harrelson Hits To Right Spots

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Now that Ken Harrelson has finally stopped thinking of himself as a home run hitter and started bashing outside pitches he once ignored, both the Hawk and the Kansas City Athletics are happier.

"It took me seven years to get over thinking about home runs all the time," Harrelson said. "That second double tonight was outside—it would have been a ball. Heck, before this year I wouldn't even swing at those because I couldn't pull 'em out of the park."

Harrelson smashed two doubles to right, driving in three runs as the A's beat the Minnesota Twins 5-2 Tuesday night behind Jim Nash. His average since he returned to the A's a month ago has climbed 56 points to .241 for his 29 games with the club.

"Man, am I glad to be back in Kansas City and playing for Alvin Dark," Harrelson said. "It was tough trying to play for (Gil) Hodges at Washington. I hit .360 in spring training and led the club in everything. But they got (Mike) Epstein."

Harrelson's hitting has changed and he's different in other ways equally important. No longer does he claim to be the greatest, in baseball, golf, billiards and what have you. He's able to laugh at his former image of himself as another Harmon Killebrew or Rocky Colavito.

"I've learned more the past year than I learned all my life before," the Hawk said. "I'm 25—not young, not old—and I decided to concentrate more on baseball than ever before."

The truth is, Harrelson has excellent right-handed power at 6-2 and 190 pounds and is a good athlete. But he tried to learn to pull the ball before he learned to be a good hitter.

"No, I don't mind platooning with Ramon Webster at first base," he said. "Webster is a heckuva hitter. I'll do anything Dark says. He's got the love and respect of all 25 men on this club—and that's really something."

And that's the new Harrelson.

Mrs. Hallenbeck Tourny Winner

Mrs. Gerald Hallenbeck, the golfing grandmother of Catskill Country Club, carded an 81 for Class A gross honors Tuesday in the weekly Northeastern New York Women's Golf Association tournament at Colonie Country Club.

Tied for runner-up honors in Class A were Miss Lori Stuhler of Antlers and Mrs. Alan Sheals of Mohawk with 82's.

The low gross prize in Class B went to Mrs. R. Wall of Wolfert's Root who posted a 95. Mrs. J. LaRoesech and Mrs. J. Meyer tied for net honors with 76's.

Finley Delays Franchise Shift

CHICAGO (AP) — Charles O. Finley will not seek permission to move the Kansas City Athletics at the major league meetings in August but neither has he closed the door on a possible franchise shift.

Finley met with the Jackson County Sports Authority for nearly two hours Tuesday in a session which was termed "cordial" by both sides.

Dutton Brookfield, spokesman for the sports authority which is building a $43-million sport complex to include separate football and baseball stadiums under a rolling dome, said he was "optimistic" after meeting with Finley.

"We did not ask for a specific commitment from Mr. Finley since this was our first meeting," said Brookfield. "But we are very hopeful we can negotiate a long-term lease to put the A's in our new sports complex."

In addition to the new stadium which will be completed by 1970 only if Kansas City has a baseball team, said Brookfield, there will be ample parking and higher radio and television revenue.

Finley, attempting to spike rumors that a franchise shift is in the making, definitely said he would not ask permission at the August meetings in Chicago to move the club.

Contract Expires

The A's present contract at Kansas City Municipal Stadium

expires this season but Finley has until Oct. 15 to exercise the first of two four-year options.

"I asked them to put in writing what they mean by a long-term lease," said Finley. "I have asked for their proposals until the first of October. Then, if I decide to move, I will present the proposals to the American League in requesting permission to move. I have no assurance such permission would be granted."

Finley is aware of the benefits from a new stadium which can be domed in a matter of minutes in inclement weather. His biggest complaint is the lack of revenue from radio and television rights.

The money from these rights, according to Finley, dropped from $325,000 in 1965 to $57,255-90 this year on a contract which wasn't negotiated until March 1. However, the 1967 figure has increased to $155,478.50 with additional sponsors.

Rookies Released

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The Buffalo Bills of the American Football League have released five rookies, thereby cutting their player roster to 61.

The rookies, who were cut, are: halfbacks Vern Moore of Central State College in Oklahoma, Buffalo's 14th draft choice, and Leroy Carter, a future draft choice from Grambling College, center Jim Nayfa, TCU, flanker Mickey Jackson, Marshall, and defensive end Malcolm Williams, Parsons.

Jackson, Nayfa and Williams were signed as free agents.

Trouble for Patriots

By ED SCHUYLER Jr.

Associated Press Sports Writer
The Boston Patriots held their first practice, but the major scrimmage took place off the field.

While 20 rookie and 10 veterans were going through their paces at the American Football League club's camp in Andover, Mass., Tuesday, a verbal scrimmage was shaping up in the office of Mike Holovak, general manager and coach.

Diehl, Battaglia

Are Golf Qualifiers

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Terry Diehl of Rochester and Bob Battaglia of Buffalo are the two Western New York qualifiers for the U.S. Golf Association's Junior Championship to be held Aug. 1 in Oklahoma City, Okla.

Diehl, who plays out of the Brook-Lea Country Club, carded a 71 Tuesday to take medalist honors in qualifying competition at the Niagara Falls Country Club. Sixteen youths participated.

Battaglia of the Brookfield Country Club was one stroke behind. Bill Clapp of the Monroe Golf Course, Rochester, finished with a 73 to earn the first alternate spot, as Paul Collier of the Oak Hill Club in Rochester nailed down the second alternate position with a 74.

The subject was a new contract for fullback Jim Nance, who was not present.

Instead the AFL's Most Valuable Player of 1966 sent his lawyer to the negotiations, about which Holovak said: "You would have to say these were preliminary talks."

Nance is scheduled to report with most of the rest of the club Thursday evening.

While the Patriots were trying to sign Nance, the AFL Kansas City Chiefs still were trying to find tight end Billy Masters, their third draft choice from Louisiana State.

Coach Hank Stram said Masters left camp at Liberty, Mo., Monday night and all efforts to locate him have been fruitless.

Meanwhile, former Green Bay star Paul Hornung, now of the New Orleans Saints of the National Football League, left the

San Diego, Calif., to join the

The Saints got some good news when veteran center John Morrow, who played 10 NFL seasons with Los Angeles and Cleveland, signed a contract. He had been a holdout since the club opened training last week.

And a player which Atlanta of the NFL thought it had in the fold turned out to belong to someone else.

Falcons officials announced that it was discovered that former Georgia fullback Frank Lankewicz still was under contract to Wheeling of the Continental League.

Resort Police Resign; Seek Living Wage

SARANAC LAKE, N.Y. (AP) — Half of this community's police department, the deputy chief, a sergeant and four patrolmen, have announced their resignations because "we can no longer exist on the present salary."

Three other policemen also threatened to resign Tuesday, but a spokesman for the department said: "They will not leave Saranac Lake unprotected."

In a letter to the Town Board Tuesday, the six officers, who represent a total of 73 years' service, said they could "no longer exist on the present salary" and were "forced to seek more remunerative employment at once."

The present salary scale here provides for a starting salary of $80 and a top salary, that paid to the chief, of $134.

The department had requested the board to raise the pay scale for policeman to that of the neighboring Adirondack resort of Lake Placid, where the minimum is $100 and the top is $155.

The board said that such money was "not in the budget" and added that the request came "in the middle of the fiscal year."

Members of the Town Board said they would advertise for patrolmen.

A spokesman for the police department said the State Police had been told of the town's situation and were ready to assist if needed.

Front Porch Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson was on the front porch of the White House Tuesday to greet President Asgerirsson of Iceland as he arrived for a luncheon.

A military honor guard lined the curving driveway to the White House as Asgerirsson's car drove in. Johnson greeted him with a handshake and a welcome.

Move to Protect Area IUE Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers has named two administrators for the union's District 3, whose president and treasurer were found "to have misused district monies."

The appointment of Jack Suarez and William Bywater was announced Tuesday by the union's executive board. The board said it acted to block access to union funds by President Milton E. Wiehrauch and Treas-

City Park Activities

Highlights of the week's activities in city parks are as follows:

HUTTON PARK—The Horse shoe champions of the week took two trophies in the City-wide Playoff Tournament held Thursday at Hutton Park. They were Keith Rossi, boys and Gail Shultis girls. They are planning to have an arts and crafts display in Jones Dairy window. Friday afternoon, Sheila Barnes took Glenn Clark, Richard Bunce, Janice Rogers, Ronald Hoetzer, Thomas and Brian Hines, Tracey Buzzanco, Paul, Mike and Peter Mercier to tour the Senate House. The directors were added by Mrs. Marie Mercier.

BLOCK PARK — On

Wednesday the JV game was played at Forsyth which was won by Block. In the afternoon they held a marshmallow roast. The horseshoe champions of the week were, John Guess Jr., boys and Babs Golski Sr. boys.

FORSYTH PARK—On Monday they had a scavenger hunt. The winning team consisted of James Sottile, Dawn, Debra and Leslie Aathout. Tuesday 18 children participated in a hike to the Senate House. Later they held a Twilight softball game with the boys against the girls. All day Thursday they held a clean-up day to pick up all the trash around the park.

LOUGHRAN PARK—Twenty children went on a hike to Academy Green where they went swimming. Hasbrouck Park won 10-0 in the JV game on Wednesday while on Friday, Loughran defeated Hasbrouck Park 12-7 in the varsity game. The horseshoe winners for the week were: Larry Crantz, senior boys; James Contino, junior boys; Jane Carpenter, senior girls and Carol Schoonmaker, junior girls.

HASBROUCK PARK—They held a cook-out Monday afternoon. The children brought their own hotdogs and hamburgers. They also toasted marshmallows. Tuesday, the older boys went on a hike to explore the caves in and around the park. Wednesday morning they had a JV game against Loughran Park at Hasbrouck. The score was 12-0 Hasbrouck being victorious. Thursday morning was the horseshoe tournament at Hutton Park. Hasbrouck took home two trophies. Debbie Gromoll won in the junior girls division and Ron Dreiser won in the junior boys division. Plans are being made for a park newspaper. The children will be able to submit poems, stories and news articles.

Dear Abby

Infidelity Hurts Entire Family

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of two wonderful sons. Until now I thought they were both very happy with their wives and adorable children.

Today one of my sons came to me with tears in his eyes such as I had not seen since he was a little boy. He confided that he had discovered his wife had been meeting another man.

I had no daughters and loved my son's wife very much. I feel that I cannot face her again, yet it is hard for me to alienate myself from the grandchildren. Please help me.

BROKEN HEARTED

DEAR BROKEN HEARTED: Tell your son to keep cool and talk out with his wife the problem raised by her infidelity. If it is to be resolved, she must do it. If it cannot be, your relationship with the grandchildren will depend upon which parent has their custody. And if it is the wife, the challenge to your empathy and understanding will be great.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 25 years to a man who has never given me a penny!

I have worked in order to pay for our house, car, and all the furnishings. He buys some groceries and thinks he is a model husband because he doesn't smoke, drink, or chase women.

(If you ask me, he would, but it's too expensive.) He works when he "feels like it"—and spends most of his time resting, watching TV, and reading. He is in perfect health and will probably live to be 100.

I am sick of the whole deal. This marriage has turned into an endurance contest. I've invited him to leave, but he ignores me. What do you suggest?

A FOOL

DEAR FOOL: What's holding you? Why don't you leave? Since you are supporting yourself anyway, you have nothing to lose but your reasons for complaining.

DEAR ABBY: I have just observed a group of "unselfish" church women preparing for a church rummage sale, the proceeds of which will go to charity. Almost every "good" item donated by someone from this group was snapped up by another member of the group. Of course they "paid" for these items, but a typical conversation was, "Say, who marked this lamp five dollars? The shade is soiled!"

Then someone would reply, "I did. I paid $65 for it new—but mark it whatever you want and take it."

DEAR IRKED: The volunteers should have been told that such shenanigans are tantamount to taking money out of the cash register. Why didn't you speak up? Silence implies agreement.

CONFIDENTIAL TO JOHN-NY: Don't let it worry you. You're normal. Nobody likes to lose. There are really no "good losers." Only good actors.

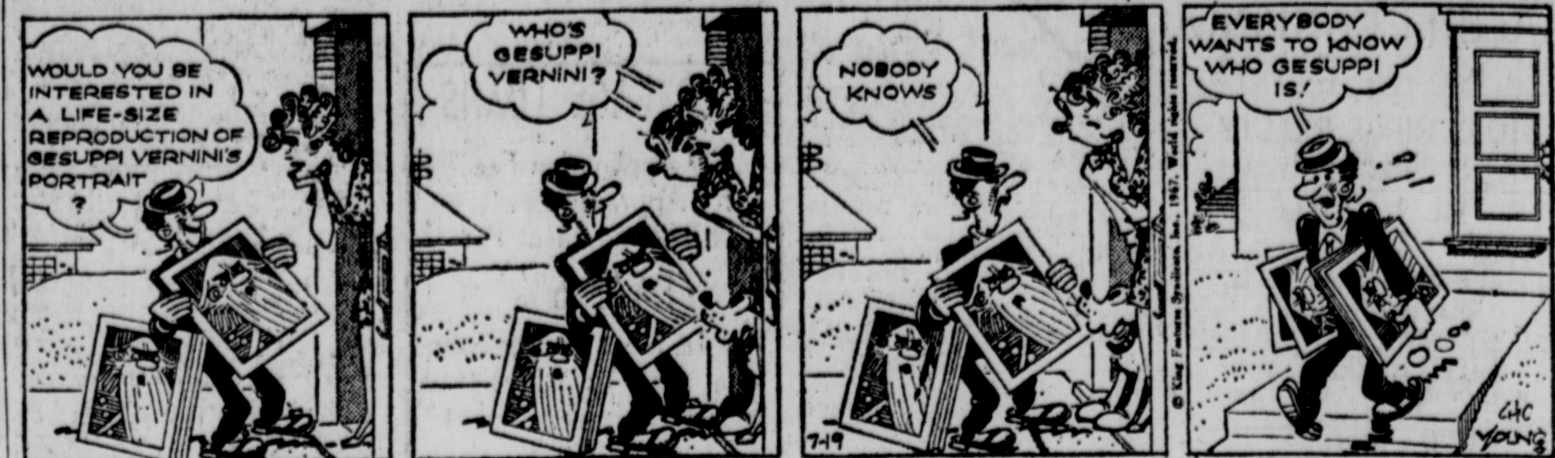

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal, unpublished reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1.00 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. (Copyright, 1967, by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.)

emolument (ee-mol-you-ment)
wages received for work

His weekly emolument was considered to be an above average salary for that particular type of work. Dissatisfied with his yearly emolument as a special consultant for the labor council, the dentist announced he was submitting his resignation. The new minister was informed that his parish would supply him with free rent and food plus a small monthly emolument.

Horoscope

By SYDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars—

("The wise man controls his destiny... astrology points the way.")

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Work toward goals, objectives. You are pressed by new responsibilities. Avoid individual who tends to discourage you. Know that you are moving in right direction. Confide in family.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Be sure meanings are clear. Applies especially in statements to opposite sex. Tendency exists for emotions to dominate logic. Be specific, realistic.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You gain through intervention of powerful allies. Applies especially to property, money, possessions. Be sure of legal status. Get assurances in writing. Consult expert.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Steer clear of arguments with envious associates. Finish projects. View situation as a whole. Don't be petty—enlarge sphere of influence. Keep up with current events.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Find reasons why. Don't be satisfied with superficial explanations. Go directly to source. Be analytical. Day features opportunity for constructive change. Be willing.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Controversy involving friend should not be allowed to escalate. Take time to explain position. Express willingness to make reasonable concession. Spare pride of dear one.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Come to grips with legal questions. If forthright there is progress. Otherwise you take backward step. Don't be afraid of the truth. Highlight versatility—and humor.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Check details. Be thorough. Ignore gossip. Base actions on facts, not rumors. Dealings indicated with relatives, neighbors. Project close to home requires personal attention.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Money involving mate or partner is spotlighted. Keep communication lines open. Analyze information, messages. Take nothing for granted. Tighten reins on budget.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Weight of decision rests on your shoulders. Involves property, security, end of a special situation. Stick to familiar course. Show gratitude to one who volunteers information.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Stress today on elusive persons, situations. Play passive role. What you seek comes your way. Accept some restrictions, limitations. Subtle approach is best one.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): You recently made certain investments of time, money. Results could be forthcoming today. Be ready, alert—follow through on opportunities. Check records, files.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you tend to brood over minor matters. But in time of emergencies you act decisively. Current cycle indicates favorable changes, including opportunity to travel.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for CAPRICORN, AQUARIUS, PISCES. Special word to LIBRA: give attention to property values. Copr. T-M, 1967, Gen. Fea. Corp.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Wednesday, July 19, the 200th day of 1967. There are 165 more days left in the year. Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1941, the "V for Victory" campaign in Europe was launched at midnight with a broadcast by Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Great Britain.

On this date: In 1776, Congress resolved "the declaration adopted on the fourth be fairly engrossed on parchment with the title and style (sic) of 'The Unanimous Declaration of the Thirteen United States of America'." In 1848, bloomers, a radical departure in women's dress, were introduced to delegates at the first Woman's Rights Convention in Seneca Falls, N.Y.

In 1870, the Franco-Prussian War began.

In 1918, German armies began to retreat across the Marne River in France after their last great World War I offensive in that country was successfully repulsed by the Allies.

In 1963, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara arrived in Saigon to analyze the critical state of war against Communist guerrillas.

In 1965, France charged that a U.S. photo reconnaissance plane took pictures of its nuclear-production facilities. Ten years ago—Derailment of a Nice-Paris express train at Bologne, France, killed 24. Five years ago—A comet IV jetliner crashed near Bangkok, Thailand, killing all 26 aboard. One year ago—Navy Cmdr. Michael Collins made an hour-long space stand during second day of Gemini 10 mission.

The Eastern Open Pairs is the oldest contract tournament in the country. It was first played in 1929 and won by George Reithe and a youngster named Oswald Jacoby. Jacoby won it three more times and it was thought that his record of four wins would stand forever because the competition gets tougher every year but this year Boris Raymond of New York also got his name on the trophy for the fourth time.

His partner was a young player named Steve Altman and one reason for their success was good defense.

Boris who sat West overcame with two hearts. He would have probably had bid five diamonds also but he was vulnerable against nonvulnerable opponents. A five-diamond bid would have landed him in five hearts doubled and he would have been down two or three.

Boris opened the king of diamonds against the four spade

CROCODILE TEARS

Tears that are shed out of false sympathy are said to be crocodile tears. The expression started from the tears crocodiles have been seen to shed while devouring their victims. However, the crocodile has no tear ducts... Scientists say that the tears may be caused when the crocodile attempts to swallow something.

OFFICE CAT

Trade Mark Reg. By Junius

Bud—What is the best way to teach a young girl to swim? Bob—That requires technique. First you put your left arm around her waist. Then you gently take her left hand and...

Hunter—Just met a great big in the woods! Second Hunter—Good! Did you give him both barrels? First—Both barrels were blown. I gave him the whole blooming gun.

Don't let the best you have ever done be the standard for the best of your life.

Little Billy—I was walking down the street, and I fell and hurt myself. Mrs. Green (his mother)—Did you cry when you got up? Little Billy—Of course I didn't cry! What's the use of crying when there's no one around to hear you?

Courtesy consists in assuming that everyone else is a gentleman, not in wondering whether he is or not, but in just assuming that he is.

John—Does your wife play bridge for money? James—Maybe she plays for it, but she never gets any.

Anti-Riot Measure Has Opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) — While the House considers an anti-riot bill supporters claim will jail traveling trouble-makers, two Cabinet members contend the causes for riots can be found in city conditions.

Opponents of the House measure say it will add new fuel to the seething discontent of Negroes living under conditions cited Tuesday by Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark and Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz.

The bill—up for a vote today—would make it a federal crime punishable by up to five years in jail and a $10,000 fine to cross state lines or use interstate facilities to incite a riot.

Its author, Rep. William C. Cramer, R-Fla., says it would put militant Negro leader Stokely Carmichael in jail and bring the FBI into the investigation of riots.

But civil rights groups, labor unions and a handful of House members say it would inflame the tensions that touch off riots and be useless as a weapon to deal with violence.

Despite such opposition, however, the bill is expected to win overwhelming approval. The House adopted a similar measure last year 388 to 25 but it died in the Senate.

Opponents hope to raise questions about the constitutionality and effectiveness of the proposed law in hopes the Senate will amend or defeat it.

Clark told a Senate subcommittee Tuesday there is no way to measure the number of potential trouble spots nor is it "constructive to dwell on this side of the ledger."

But he said "numerous cities have an environmental condition that lends itself to a potential, in varying degrees, for rioting and other civil disturbance activities."

Wirtz told another Senate subcommittee that riots have occurred "as the result of inaction—or worse—lasting for a century."

Wirtz, testifying in favor of President Johnson's $2 billion anti-poverty program request, said he wanted to reject completely "any implication that the riots in Newark occurred because somebody did something or other in connection with these recent programs we have."

Police Seek Armed Robber In Dutchess Motel Holdup

Roadblocks were set up by authorities throughout Dutchess County and at the Mid-Hudson and Beacon-Newburgh bridges early today as police sought an armed robber who held up the night clerk at a Town of Poughkeepsie motel and fled with "a large sum of money."

Town Police Lieut. Paul Osterman told The Freeman that Alfred Deacan, 53-year-old night clerk was in the main office of the Red Bull Motor Inn, 576 South Road, between the City of Poughkeepsie and Wappingers Falls, at 12:15 a. m.

As Deacan looked up he saw a man standing close to him brandishing a silver revolver with a pearl handle. The armed robber, police said, ordered the clerk "get in there and don't leave for five minutes," as he motioned toward an adjacent office.

Deacan obeyed the command with the intruder's weapon pointed in his direction. During the next few minutes, the cash register was rifled of the contents and the holdup man fled. Police were notified and Fishkill State Police and other authorities set up roadblocks as City and Town police investigated the robbery.

Police did not disclose the amount taken by the gunman, but the management of the motel, who said there were upwards of 100 guests in their rooms at the time of the robbery, denied a report by another news media that the sum taken was $1,000.

Apparently guests at the motel were not aware of the presence of the holdup man or that a robbery was in progress in the office nearby.

The man sought was described as white, about 25-35 years of age, 5 feet, 8 inches tall, wearing dark clothes. Police set up a special telephone which was in operation at 10:30 a. m. today.

Lieut. Osterman said anyone having any information of the holdup man or a description of a suspicious car that might have been seen in the vicinity of the motel at the time of the holdup, should call the special telephone number 452-2406. Any information given police will be held in strict confidence, Osterman said.

NO MORE DEADLINES—Charles R. Douglas (center) proudly displays framed citation from Kingston Police Department Tuesday night at Salvucci's Restaurant, West Hurley, where he was feted with testimonial dinner on occasion of his retirement. Among those honoring the veteran Woodstock journalist and long-time Kingston Freeman writer in speeches were (l-r) Richard L. Treat, vice president and general manager of Mid-Hudson Publications, Inc., publishers of The Freeman; Charles J. Tiano, Freeman sports editor who served as toastmaster; Mayor Raymond W. Garrahan of Kingston; and Kingston Chief of Police Robert F. Murphy. More than 80 co-workers and friends were on hand to bid farewell to Douglas, who has most recently served with distinction as City Hall and police reporter and whose local reporting career spanned 38 years. Among various gifts received, including that trademark of journalists—a typewriter—Douglas seemed most moved by the citation presented by Chief Murphy; said he would "hang it on my wall as my shingle, since I have none." ## Lunar Shot Seen As Vital Mission

By JIM STROTHMAN
AP Aerospace Writer
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)

America's Lunar Explorer aims toward the moon today on a mission viewed as the "last chance" to gather information about potential radiation hazards facing U.S. astronauts.

The windmill-shaped scientific craft, officially named Explorer 35, is to blast off at 10:19 a. m. EDT on the 50th launch of a Delta rocket.

After a three-day voyage across 225,608 miles of space, Lunar Explorer was to sweep into an egg-shaped orbit around the moon.

There, it was to spend the next two to three years studying radiation hazards and investigate whether a cone-shaped tail that trails earth, caused by this planet's magnetic field, could shield moon-bound Apollo astronauts from radiation emitted into space by storms on the sun.

"This will be our last chance to get radiation environment from the moon in advance of the Apollo program," said Dr. Norman F. Ness, project scientist. No funds have been appropriated to put another radiation-studying spacecraft into orbit around the moon, he explained.

The 230-pound Lunar Explorer was packed with 10 experiments to measure cosmic dust particles and magnetic fields in the vicinity of the moon, as well as several forms of radiation emitted into interplanetary space by eruptions on the sun. No camera was aboard.

The only other attempt to put a craft of this type into lunar orbit failed July 1, 1966, when a Delta rocket flew faster than the acceptable speed.

A major goal of Lunar Explorer was to study the earth's magnetic tail, which stretches out to perhaps several million miles on the side of earth away from the sun. Apollo project officials want to know if it can serve as a protective cocoon to help shield moon-bound astronauts.
